MUSSOLINI, IN LONG SPEECH, SAYS FASCISM WILL TRIUMPH

Senate President Denounces Political Crimes

PREMIER'S REPLY

Says Party Has Received Blow But Would Not Yield

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, June 24.—In the Senate today the President, Signor Tittoni, expressed indignation at the murder of Signor Matteotti and repugnance at the motives of self-interest surrounding the crime. He affirmed the Senate's determination that a full penalty should fall on those responsible.

Signor Mussolini in a long speech associated himself with these sentiments. He reiterated his extreme regret and horror. He declared that the Fascisti were among the first to condemn those responsible. Justice would be meted out irrespective of person. The Government would stand fast, but this did not mean that it might not be reconstructed in order to enable it better to achieve national pacification. There was no question of his clinging to office, but he would regard himself as the most cowardly of men if he shirked his moral and political responsibilities at a difficult moment. He refused to agree to dissolution. Fascism had certainly received a blow, but it had already profited and would continue to profit from it in getting rid of bad elements. Fascism would refuse to bow to the storm of reproach. The incident at Bologna were indicative of the moral and political tension, which had reached its maximum, particularly in North and Central Italy, where Fascism was not strongly represented. Everything must be done to prevent the situation becoming worse.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 24.—The King of Italy is reported to have made a solemn appeal for peace. Signor Mussolini's departure is improbable.

Anglo-Russian Parley To Wait

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 25.—The Diplomatic Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that the official Anglo-Soviet negotiations are at present in a state of suspended animation. The British side considers it futile to proceed further until negotiations for raising a loan and reaching an agreement with the British holders of Russian stock have fructified. Therefore, the resumption of the plenary conference is problematical.

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, June 24.—M. Zinovieff in the course of a speech at the Communist Internationale Congress today declared: "England is now our chief task. If we succeed in creating a mass Communist party there, half the European victory will be achieved. We must not undervalue the happenings in England. We must set to work in the British Colonies."

Violent Scenes In Reichstag Over The Prisoners Issue

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 24.—Violent scenes occurred in the Reichstag tonight in the course of the debate on a motion for the release of political prisoners. A regular hand-to-hand fight took place between Nationalists and Socialists. One Member apparently tried to strangle another. Insults were shrieked across the House. The sitting was twice suspended. The Communists walked out in a body as a protest against a remark by a Nationalist.

Peking Dust

A Daily Chronicle Of The Capital's Gossip And News

(From Our Staff Correspondent)

Peking, June 23.—Peking is now sweltering under weather that may be described as 'really hot.' The sun is blistering hot and with the cessation of the wind storms that have made the capital famous—the Gobi desert spending a good deal of its time meandering around the hutungs and peeking in doors and windows—even a breeze that might help a little is noticeable chiefly by its absence.

Serious business has practically been placed in hibernation for the Summer and most of the Peking wives have already departed for Peitaiho or are making preparations to leave in the immediate future. Their husbands will, as usual, spend half of the Summer commuting between the resort and business in Peking that must be attended to.

The city is practically deserted each week-end, everyone possessing a motor car or a mule—or not minding a long walk—going off to the Western Hills to spend one, two or sometimes three days each week. Many Peking residents have rented temples dotting the Western Hills, converted them into charming Summer places, and specialise in week-end parties, and those without temples make use of two very good Chinese inns in that district, the Jade Fountain Hotel, just a short distance beyond the Summer Palace, and the Patachu Hotel, situated in the midst of several temples and nearby some of the temple summer homes of Pekingites.

The Patachu Hotel serves excellent meals, is a popular rendevouz for teas, and according to foreigners who have stayed there overnight maintains a first class service in every respect. Shanghailanders who visit the pretty little bungalow-type hotel these hot days cannot help but wish that there was a similar hotel somewhere in the Shanghai Hills where they could spend the week-end comfortably and escape some of the city's heat. Those who have visited the Jade Fountain Hotel say it is on a par with the Patachu.

And speaking of places to spend the week-end it remains for several Peking residents to bring back word that there is an excellent trip not far from Nanking that many Shanghailanders could take with pleasure. About 25 miles from Nanking, they report, there is an excellent thermal springs that has been famous among the Chinese for centuries for hot baths. Those foreigners who have been both places say that the baths are just as good as Japan's most famous hot springs.

The hot springs are about 25 miles from Nanking but can be reached easily as there is an excellent motor car road from the city to the springs that has been tried by most of the Nanking residents and found to be in splendid shape. The trip is growing more and more popular with foreigners in the vicinity of Nanking although it is said that the accommodations at the springs lack a great deal of being what they might be. Definite information about the road and the facilities at the springs cannot be secured from the Peking residents who have been there but it would seem that Mr. John Davis, the courteous and efficient American Consul at Nanking could provide any necessary information to any who might be interested in the baths at the hot springs.

New Magistrates Have First Sitting At The Mixed Court

Three new Chinese Magistrates, Messrs. Oen, Sung and Zau, were introduced at the Mixed Court yesterday. Two of them will replace Magistrates Kwan and Tsang, who go on leave next month, and the third is an extra Magistrate who has been assigned owing to the increase in civil cases. Mr. Oen sat yesterday with Assessor Martin and Magistrate Kwan, Mr. Sung with Assessor Bucknell and Magistrate Loh and Mr. Zau with Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li.

Premiers Send 'Very Firm' Note On Disarmament To The German Reichstag

Message Drawn Up By MacDonald And Herriot At Their Meeting At Chequers; Stresemann Told To Stop Evasions

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 24.—A Franco-British Note with regard to disarmament, conceived in very firm terms, was drawn up by Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot after their conversations at the Chequers and addressed to the Reich. The Matin declares that Mr. MacDonald, constantly thinking of the peril which German armaments are causing to European peace, is anxious because a part of public opinion judges him, on erroneous reports, less decided on the question of disarmament of the Reich than the French Government. The Note addressed to the Reich is not a diplomatic document and will not be published. It is intended to inform Herr Stresemann that the attempts made by Germany to evade the injunctions of the Conference of Ambassadors have no chance of success.

M. Herriot was greeted at the Brussels station by MM. Theunis and Hymans. He was received by King Albert. He then had a conference with MM. Theunis and Hymans and was present at a conference of the Belgian civil mission in the Ruhr. According to the press, the question of reparations did not raise any difficulties, but the Belgians are said to have been more intransigeant on the subject of security. They demanded serious guarantees before admitting the evacuation of the Ruhr. M. Herriot will return to Paris at midnight. The Cabinet meeting will be held on June 25.

The Chequers interview is commented on by the German press with reserve. Vorwaerts says that the Reich must oppose Franco-British collaboration. The Zeit declares that the participation of Germany in the London Conference is indispensable.

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, June 24.—In the course of long conversations, M. Herriot communicated to MM. Theunis and Hymans the details of his conversation with Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, according to a subsequent statement by M. Theunis, these conversations permit the hope of close cooperation between Britain, France, Italy and Belgium with a view to carrying out the experts' plan.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 24.—It is understood that a personal message from M. Herriot and Mr. MacDonald was communicated this morning to the Chancellor. Herr Marx. It points out that very disquieting reports are reaching the British and French Government of the increasing activities of Nationalist militarist associations. It urges the German Government in its own interest to facilitate such an examination of armaments as will dispel suspicion.

TALK ON RADIO GIVEN AT DINNER OF UNION CLUB

Mr. H. A. Williams Delivers Interesting Lecture

Members of the Union Club, at their regular "fellowship dinner" last night, were entertained by an interesting and instructive talk on radio and radio devices given by Mr. H. A. Williams, United States Naval radio expert.

Mr. Williams, during the course of his talk, gave practical demonstrations, which were most appreciated, despite the fact that there was considerable interference from nearby radio stations and ships.

The dinner last night was presided over by Mr. V. G. Lyman, president of the Club, and was attended by about fifty Chinese, British and American business and professional men.

Restriction Scheme To Stay In Force

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 24.—Commenting on the fact that Chinese rubber interests in Malaya are petitioning the Straits Government to abolish the rubber restriction scheme, the Financial Times emphasises that there is not the slightest prospect of annulment of the scheme at present. It says that from August 1 onwards there is now practically certain to be a further five percent cut in production, followed by an additional five percent every three months until the average price of rubber reaches 15 pence.

Investiture At Buckingham Palace

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 24.—As the sovereign head of the Grand Priory of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, the King held an investiture at Buckinham Palace today of Knights, Ladies and Associates of the Order. Besides 150 candidates for investiture, there was a numerous assemblage in the Ballroom of the Palace. The ceremony was attended by the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Among the donats invested were Mr. Ho Kom-tong and Sir Robert Ho Tung, who received silver badges.

Government Loses Again In Commons

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 24.—The novelty attaching to Government defeats in the House of Commons is, somewhat wearing off. For the sixth time they received a set-back tonight, when an amendment to the Traffic Bill was carried by 195 votes to 168 by the Conservatives and Liberals. The amendment pressed the Transport Ministry to adopt a certain arrangement for submitting regulations to Parliament, which, the Minister objected, would hamper the work of his department. The defeat is regarded as unimportant.

Customs Tyrant At Japanese Port Loses His Place

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Yokohama, June 25.—Yesterday afternoon, prior and during the arrival of the President Madison, foreigners, particularly Americans, were subjected to an unusually rigorous examination by a petty Customs official. He went the length of ordering them to take off their boots and stand in their stockinged feet on wet floors. Receiving a complaint, higher officials intervened and apologised for the unnecessary discourtesy. The offender has been dismissed.

Tokio, June 25.—Christian workers in Japan, American as well as Japanese, who are sitting in conference here, today passed a resolution of their firm determination to co-operate for the solution of the Americo-Japanese question.

The meeting was characterised by a spirit of sympathy, which, it is stated, has removed any likelihood of a breach amongst the churches of Japan.

Japanese Labor Envoy Has Home Support, He Soys

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, June 24.—With reference to the protest of Mr. Suzuki, the Japanese workers' Delegate to the International Labour Conference and his proposal for the Conference to institute an enquiry into the question of liberty of association of workers, the Japanese Government delegate stated that the Japanese Government had shown goodwill towards the development of workers' associations and observes and fully appreciates the principle of freedom of association of the workers, but will oppose Mr. Suzuki's proposal on various grounds.

WILLIAM G. McADOO

Unveil Memorial Here To Late Dr. Neil Macleod

The handsome bronze memorial erected by public subscription in the Shanghai General Hospital to Dr. Neil Macleod, for many years a prominent physician here and largely instrumental in the development of the hospital, was unveiled at noon yesterday in the presence of a large number of members of the medical profession, nurses and friends of the deceased.

The unveiling ceremony was conducted by Cav. G. de Rossi, chairman of the Board of Governors and an eloquent eulogy of Dr. Macleod was delivered by Dr. Marshall. The memorial, of bronze let into marble, is in the porch, facing the main entrance to the hospital. A large bronze medallion of the late Dr. Macleod surmounts it, the work having been done by Mr. H. M. Spence, of Messrs. Stewardson and Spence, under the supervision of Dr. Macleod's daughter.

In unveiling the memorial Mr. de Rossi spoke of the fine work done in Shanghai by the man whom it commemorates. He paid tribute to Dr. Macleod's sterling qualities and the gift he had of transferring his enthusiasm to others among his co-workers.

Previous to this Dr. Marshall addressed the assembly.

"We are here," he said, "today to assist at the unveiling of a tablet to the memory of the late Dr. Neil Macleod in recognition of the many valuable services he rendered this hospital during his life-time. As the present senior member of the staff and one who has had the privilege of being Dr. Macleod's friend and associate for 22 years, I have been asked to say something about him before the ceremony. His memory is still too fresh to make it necessary for me to say much to remind you of what he did for Shanghai and this hospital, and therefore I shall be very brief. For a quarter of a century he was officially connected with the Shanghai General Hospital, first on the staff of which he was senior member till he retired from practice in 1913. He then became Governor, was appointed Chairman in 1915 and continued so until 1920, the year preceding his death.

"This hospital was entirely built in his time, thanks to his initiative and persistence. It is no exaggeration to say that the X-Ray Department was the work of his own hands. Dr. Macleod was a great and interesting personality. One could not be long in his presence and fail to be impressed by the keenness and enthusiasm with which he tackled whatever he had in hand. He was wonderfully well-informed on practically every branch of his profession, and, in fact, on any subject out of it that interested him. An indefatigable worker, and a great reader, he kept himself well abreast of the times. His manner to his younger associates was always most kind and considerate, and it was a positive education to consult with him. He was such a storehouse of knowledge and experience. I

CLAN MACMILLAN CREW HAD BITTER FIGHT WITH GALE

Captain On Bridge Until Dragged Off By Mate

(Reuter's Service)

Rangoon, June 24.—The crew of the Clan MacMillan experienced a trying forty-eight hours before they were rescued. The night was pitch black and the sea rough when the vessel grounded on the shoals of Preparis Island. Shortly after she started to sink rapidly. The crew took to the boats, but stood by for twelve hours until the ship was finally submerged. Meanwhile the captain remained on the bridge, and the chief officer literally had to drag him off. The boats then rowed away. They had an electric torch as their only signaling apparatus. They encountered high seas and a strong wind, which necessitated continual baling. After the Minhoa sighted the two boatloads of ship-wrecked men, she still had considerable difficulty in picking them up owing to a half gale blowing. The tanker, Schwe Dagon, came up and went off to search for the other boat, which has now been brought to Chittagong with the captain and others on board.

Sinkiang Wants Treaty With Soviet

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 22.—According to unofficial reports the Cabinet yesterday discussed a further communication from General Yang Tseng-hsin, Tuchun of Sinkiang, requesting the Central Government to sanction a commercial agreement between Sinkiang and Soviet Russia. Although General Yang says that the proposed agreement would deal only with local commercial questions, it is not expected that the Government will give approval.

DEMOCRATIC KEYNOTER AT CONVENTION FLAYS G. O. P.

Senator Harrison Bitterly Denounces Grafters

WANTS A WILSON

Calls Coolidge Cold To World Court Idea

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, June 24.—Addressing the Democratic Convention on being elected temporary chairman, Senator Harrison of Mississippi unsparingly condemned the Republican home and foreign policies. He referred bitterly to the recent graft disclosures at Washington, exclaiming that "the least the American people expect of their public servants is common honesty. Oh, for a man at the White House with the matchless statesmanship and fine fighting qualities of Woodrow Wilson." Senator Harrison said that President Wilson's policy was definite, wise and brave, while the Republican policy had been vacillating, hating and weak. He praised President Harding's attitude towards the World Court, but complained that President Coolidge, since assuming office, had made only a bow in that direction.

Thirteen thousand party "warhorses," delegates and spectators packed Madison-square Gardens for the opening of the sitting a mid-day in stifling summer heat. Today's proceedings were brief but surcharged with intense feeling as a result of the pre-Convention campaign.

GENERAL FOWLER HAS PRAISE FOR VOLUNTEER CORPS

Expressions of satisfaction with the efficiency of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps and regarding improvements noted since last year are contained in the report returned to the Council by Major-General Sir John Fowler, who inspected the Corps last month.

The bearing and march discipline of the troops during the concentration parade, Major-General Fowler described as excellent, while there was marked improvement in the musketry of the various units.

"This is the third time I have had the honor of inspecting this Corps," the report concludes. "I have been much impressed by the keenness and amount of time that is given by individuals to its training, and I feel sure that the Corps is keeping up its high reputation and will acquit itself well when the occasion arises."

Press Workers Urged To Accept Places Abroad

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 24.—Sir Thomas Bennett, Proprietor of the Times of India, and Mr. Arthur Still, Editor the Straits Times, were the principal guests at a luncheon of the Institute of Journalists today. Sir M. Bhownagree, Sir Alfred Robbins, Mr. Robert Donald and many other prominent home and overseas pressmen were present.

Mr. Still dwelt on the varied character of the recognition pressmen received in the East. He advised young journalists not to shirk opportunities of securing appointments abroad because every year spent overseas added to their value both as journalists and citizens. He hoped that the Institute and the Empire Press Union would bear in mind that the newspaper press was not entirely confined to Fleet Street.

Sir Thomas Bennett referred to the growth of India newspapers during the past forty years.

CHEKIANG HEADS PLEDGE AID IN ANTI-DRUG FIGHT

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, June 24.—The opium suppression fight here registered a decided step in advance when the local committee of eight, representing as many organisations with their various branches called on their excellencies Governors Lu Yung-hsiang and Chang Tsai-yang and secured their consent to serve as honorary chairmen of the Committee in its province-wide endeavor. Not only did the two governors consent to serve, but they consented enthusiastically, and pledged themselves to do all in their power to rid the Province of Chekiang of the opium evil. This means that the entire administrative force of the province is pledged to join in the fight and that the word will be passed along down the line to the fu cities, then to the hsien cities, and on to the smaller magistracies and that there will be a concerted effort throughout the province.

This initiative from the administrative forces has been pledged the full support of the Committee of Eight, who called on the governors and secured their support. Another meeting of the committee has been called for this week, with the purpose of perfecting its province-wide plan of action. The thought is to carry the organisation in to every section, operating through the branches of various organisations which have been responsible for the initial steps. If this plan carries, it will mean the enlistment of local agricultural, educational, mercantile, silk, banking, and Christian organisations whereever such organisations have been effected. The students who are returning home from their studies will also be active in aiding these organisations in their home communities.

Plans are under foot to organise every church community and membership into an active working force in behalf of the supression forces. The representatives of the local churches believe that this will be easily possible through the efforts and out-reach of the Hangchow Union Committee. They are ready to put the full machinery of their organisation at the disposal of the local committee, and if it seems desirable to attempt to secure actual signatures from every Christian in the province. This is illustrative of the thoroughness of organisation which the committee hopes to bring about throughout the province in each organisation represented in the fight.

Needless to say, the hearty sympathy of Governors Lu and Chang and their willingness to lead in the fight which the community is organising has brought great courage. Their attitude is just what was expected, for as formerly reported they deplore the situation which has made the suppression fight necessary, but it brings encouragement, because it means support which will drive out the evil of opium and bring the province back to its freedom from it.

ACCOUNTANTS IN CHINA TAKE STEPS FOR ORGANISATION

A national association of chartered accountants in China is being organised, according to announcement by Mr. Lizen Scheng, of the Shanghai College of Accountancy, 11 Markham Road.

Although records have shown that accounts were kept as early as 2242 B. C., says Mr. Lizen Scheng, it is generally conceded that the science of accounting may still be developed and many problems are still to be solved. It is toward the further perfection of the profession that associations are formed for such study.

The stated objects of the Chinese Chartered Accountants' Association are the unification of accountants throughout the country, promotion and maintenance of professional and moral standards and study for the advance of the science of accounting.

At an organisation meeting held in the Pacific Cafe a large number of accountants resident in this district were present and it was decided that circulars be sent to accountants throughout the country.

There are at present about sixty holders of the certificates of "Chartered Accountant" issued by the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce in China, of whom one-third are located in Shanghai.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES HELD AT U. OF NANKING

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, June 23.—The commencement exercises of the University of Nanking were held this morning at ten o'clock in Sage Memorial Chapel. The Military Governor, General Chi Shih-yuan, was represented by Mr. S. T. Wen, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, while the Civil Governor and the Commissioner of Education were also on the platform.

The program was as follows:

Music, the University Band.

Patriotic Hymn, the Assemblage.

Invocation, Dr. H F. Rowe.

Greetings from Officials, the Military Governor, the Civil Governor, the Commissioner of Education.

Music, the University Glee Club.

Commencement Address, the Hon. Fan Yuen-lien.

"Nanking's Vow," the Assemblage.

Conferring of Degrees and Diplomas the Acting President and the Deans.

Announcements, the Acting President.

"The Campus Song," the Assemblage.

Music, the University Band.

Among the announcements made by the Acting President, Prof. Guy W. Sarvis, the following are of general interest. Of the 269 graduates, from all departments of the University system, exclusive of the Language School, 53 received the B. A. or B. S. degree, having completed the Arts and Science course or the course in Agriculture and Forestry; 3 the B. A. degree in Theology, having finished the combination course offered by the University and the Nanking School of Theology, 90 received the Junior College certificate, 7 the diploma from the School of Nursing, 46 the Middle School diploma, 56 the Model School certificate, 10 the Lower Primary and 4 the Kindergarten certificates. The total of 269 is a decided increase over last year when only 173 completed the different courses.

The enrolment for the spring semester was 1122 as opposed to 1,068 last spring. There has been an increase in attendance each year since 1920 and a still more rapid increase in the number who have applied but who have not been admitted.

Beginning with next autumn, the new plan of organisation, with a 6-year Middle School and 4-year College will be inititiated. Junior College certificates will be given for the last time in the spring of 1925.

Important additions to the staff are in the Chinese Department, where two of the most widely-known teachers from Government institutions have been secured: in the Department of Religion, to which the Rev. Horace Robson has been appointed, and in the Department of Physical Education, where a Director of Physical Training will be added.

Student fees have increased 25 percent over last year and 40 percent of the current budget is now provided by the students. The Famine Fund of $1,400,000 which was given to the University last year for use in educational and other work for the prevention of famine will be used for a period of years for the purposes mentioned. The sum of $75,000 has been provided toward a Tls100,000 Science Building to be erected during the coming year opposite Swazey Hall. Of the amount already in hand for that building, $25,000 was provided by the China Medical Board. In addition, this same Board is giving $30,000 for science equipment and $15,000 toward a special teacher of science. A considerable number of residences is being erected for Chinese and foreign staff.

The number of volumes in the Chinese Library has been increased from 20,000 to 30,000 and an increasing amount of research in Chinese is being carried on.

The following members of the graduating class have been elected to the Phi Tao Phi Honorary Scholastic Society; Mr. Tai An Pan, Mr. Ma. Wen Hwan, Mr. Chang Yuen Wei and Mr. Chiao Yung Shen.

With the return in the fall of Dr. A. J. Bowen, the President, and others of the staff from America, the University will be in even a better position to carry on the work of all departments.

think his most notable quality was his thoroughness, and when you find thoroughness, combined with outstanding ability, as in Dr. Macleod's case, it means success.

Back nad loins . . . 15

"As a physician Dr. Macleod was undoubtedly a success. He was master of whatever subject he cared to specialise in. He at one time did some very valuable work in Bacteriology, and by his knowledge of this subject was often of great service to the Health Department here. The Radiological work he did in this Hospital was acknowledged by the greatest experts in England to be of the very highest order, even at a time when the apparatus at his command was of a comparatively primitive character. He kept pace with the advance of this science and we owe it entirely to him that we can now boast of a Radiologinea Department that any Hospital might be proud of. Dr. Macleod was one of the finest citizens that Shanghai ever had. By his death the medical profession out here lost its greatest ornament. The benefits that this community derived from his presence, in many cases only recognised by the few, will be enjoyed by all for generations to come. No man deserves more the tribute now being paid to his memory."

The inscription on the tablet reads as follows:

"Erected by popular subscription in memory of Neil Macleod, M.D., Edin. Born at Greenwich on January 15, 1847. Died at London, on May 19, 1921. For 44 years a prominent citizen and a distinguished medical practitioner of Shanghai. He held the appointment of visiting physician to the staff of this Hospital from 1896 to 1914, and radiologist from 1913 to 1920. He was elected Governor in 1913 and was Chairman of the Board from 1915 to 1920. A keen student and leader in the science and art of his profession, the present, extension of this Hospital and the X-Ray Department stand as his memorial."

Japanese Diet Elects Speaker

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 25.—The Extraordinary three-weeks session of the Diet opens today with the election of the Speaker.

The formal opening by the Prince Regent will take place on June 28. The first regular session will be held on June 30, when the Premier, the Minister of Finance and the Foreign Minister will speak.

More than usual interest is being aroused by the proceedings, partly in view of the Kenseipai's return to power, and partly from indications that the Government will announce definite policies regarding suffrage, military and other retrenchment and Upper House reform to which the Party is considered pledged, though it is impossible that much, if any, progress will be made with such measures until the regular session next December.

The Foreign Minister's speech is also awaited with interest, especially in connection with the Government's policy regarding Russia and China, on which public attention is at present focussing.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, June 25.—The first session of the Imperial Diet since the General election was convened today. There were 437 M.P.'s present, and as a result of voting, Mr. Gizo Kasuya was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives almost unanimously, for out of 433 votes cast, he received 426.

Mr. Matajiro Koizumi was elected Vice-Speaker. It is reported that the Speaker and Vice-Speaker of the Lower House will be personally nominated by the Prince Regent tomorrow and that the opening ceremony of the extraordinary session of the Diet will be held on the 28th instant.

UNIVERSITY DEAN SPEAKS HIS MIND AT GRADUATION

Only Private Schools Are Of Any Use, He Tells Hearers

(China Press Correspondence)

Wusih, Ku., June 23.—The dean of a large government university located in this province having been invited to make the chief address at the commencement exercises of a privately founded Middle School here in Wusih is reported to have done so in terms that were most unflattering to all but privately founded schools.

Your correspondent's informant reports that the dean divided schools into four kinds: Government Schools, Technical Schools, Mission Schools and Private Schools.

Of the Government Schools, he is reported to have said that they were established so that various people such as commissioners of education, boards of education, principals of schools, etc., etc., might have some excuse for sharing in funds that are collected by the government.

Technical Schools according to him are founded for the purpose of gaining face for the founders. When this has been accomplished they are of no use to anyone, thought the dean.

He admitted that the Mission Schools are efficient and do good work. He frankly said, however, that they are very offensive to him and other men of his type because they stand as a reproach to the Chinese. He feels that it is as of the foreigners were saying, "You, Chinese need educating and since you do not seem to manage it yourselves we will come and help you by establishing schools for you."

The private schools were run, he said, with pure motives and caused no loss of face to anyone. On this account he congratulated the school whose guest he was.

Commencement At S. China College

The commencement exercises of the South China College were held in the auditorium of the Young People's Lecture Circuit near the small west gate in Shanghai, on Monday, June 23. Despite the heat, a great number of people attended to witness the awarding of diplomas, honors and scholarships to a record number of graduates.

Dr. Kiusic Kimm, president of the college, presided. The principal addresses were given by Mr. Charles L. Boynton, Principal of the Shanghai American School; Dr. C. L. Yin, Member of the Kiangsu Educational Commission and Professor of Sociology in the Shanghai College of Commerce of the Southeastern University; and Hon. Woo Shan, Director of the China Roads Association, representing the Board of Advisors of the College.

In addition to the awarding of certificates, honors, and scholarships, the High School Departments English Orator's Medal was handed by Mr. J. B. Sawyer to the winner, Mr. Hou Yok-hwa. The pennant for the Inter-scholastic Volley Ball Championship was presented to the Team.

Among the guests were Dr. F. S. Brockman and Mr. C. W. Harvey of the Y. M. C. A. International Committee and China National Committee, respectively; Mr. J. B. Sawyer, American Vice-Consul in Shanghai; and Adjutant H. L. Tchwey, representing the Defense Commissioner of Shanghai.

Woman Is 'Prisoner' In Church Tower 48 Years

Mexico City.—Apart from the historic interest and architectural beauty of Mexico City's cathedral, the oldest in Latin America, there is a human interest attached to it.

At the western angle and between the main structure and the ofty tower there is a small set of apartments, in which the custodian of the bells and his family live. He is named Francisco de la Brena, forty-eight years old, and has five children.

With him lives his widowed mother, Emilia Vasquez de la Brena, who has had her home in the tower since the middle of the last century, and she has not descended to the great plaza facing the cathedral for forty-eight years. Brena himself descends but rarely to the sphere in which his fellow mortals live and has not done so for the last five years. All Brena's children were born in the tower and they never have been outside of it. The family's backyard, with its usual allotment of chickens, is located on the convex roofs of the church.

The third generation of Brena now is being brought up in its unique surroundings. The little ones, like their father and grandfather, all doubtless look with disdain on life "on the level" and remain in their lofty refuge, from where they may gaze on the incomparable Valley of Mexico and on Mexico City's fine Plaza de la Constitucion, always crowded with thousands of human beings, who appear like hungry ants in an external scamper for the necessities of life.

Brena, or the guardian of the bells, as he prefers to be styled, has seen many tragic happenings in the great plaza facing his abode and at the National Palace, which runs at right angles to the cathedral.

He looked down on the multitude outside the palace in 1880 when General Diaz ceded to General Gonzales. He has seen the entry and departure from the palace of the Presidents of Mexico from Sebastian Lerdo de Tejada, Porfirio Diaz, Manuel Gonzales, General Diaz again, to Francisco Madero, Venustiano Carranza, down to Alvaro Obregon.

Brena has no intention of leaving his home. Born in the tower, he will die there. His little son, now three years old, will be his successo ras "guardian of the bells."

ANKING SCHOOL HAS ITS ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Eleven Students Graduated By St. Paul's Institution

(China Press Correspondence)

Anking, Anhui, June 22.—The fourteenth annual commencement exercises of St. Paul's School, Anking, were held on June 20. The student body, led by the school band, formed in procession at the main building, and marched to the school chapel, which was gaily decorated for the occasion. After the singing of a hymn, the Headmaster, Rev. John Knight Shryock, gave the opening address of the graduation exercises.

Following Mr. Shryock's address the representative of Governor Ma Lien-chia read an address prepared by the Governor for the occasion. Other talks were made by the Provincial Commissioner of Education, and the Commissioner of the River Police. Many of the local officials were present in person, or by representatives, including the Chief Justice of the Provincial Supreme Court, Commissioner of Police, and others.

After the speaking, diplomas were given to the eleven members of the graduating class, who were: Frank Li, Russell Hu, Patrick Lo, David Chou, Luke Den, Bernard Wang, Benjamin Yang, Basil Chang, Frank Yang, Mark Ho, Frank Yin. The greater percentage of these young men are expecting to enter Boone University at Wuchang, and St. John's, Shanghai, in the fall, with the exception of Patrick Lo, who will return to St. Paul's as a member of the teaching staff. All the graduates are Christians, as are all but three of the sixty-eight members of the upper classes in the school.

After the diplomas were given out, prizes were presented as follows: A scholarship in St. John's University to Frank Li, he having the highest scholarship standing of the graduating class, and one of the highest standings ever recorded in the school;

The cup for the Central China Soccer Championship, won by the St. Paul's team at the recent meet at Changsha, was presented to the team, and received for the team by Captain Thomas Lo; other prizes were given to the members of other classes who had reached the highest standings in their respective classes during the year, a prize to the winner of the school tennis tournament, and the winners in interclass track and field sports.

FINANCE CAMPAIGN

Following the exercises in the chapel, the student body, graduates, and friends, marched back to the school main dormitory, to the usual accompaniment of several thousand firecrackers. A feast was prepared at the Headmaster's house for the visiting officials, teachers, and immediate friends of the new graduates. At this feast a campaign was launched by the president of the Alumni Association to raise twelve thousand dollars for new buildings, which are sadly needed. Several thousand dollars are believed to have been subscribed at once by those present, and high hopes are entertained that the total amount will be promised before the re-opening of school in the fall.

A new dormitory, with accommodations for fifty new students, has already been laid out, and building operations will be started at once. During the past year over a hundred applications had to be refused on account of lack of room in the school buildings. It is hoped that the new building will be finished in time to admit a class after the next China New Year.

A six weeks' summer school, carrying on the classes which have been given during the regular school year, will open on June 25, and the regular session of school will begin again on September 15.

Comparison

It is obvious that where claims are made, comparison is inevitable. Comparison of the NEW Columbia Grafonola with ordinary gramophones has given it a place in music that no other gramophone has attained in so short a space of time. Comparison of the "NEW PROCESS" Records (without Scratch) with ordinary records reveals all the deficiencies of the latter.

To hear either one is to enjoy but one-half of a great achievement. To hear them in combination is to experience the sensation of a new experience. But to hear them in comparison with ordinary gramophones is to understand the enthusiasm of master musicians and music-lovers alike.

Eighty Students Are Graduated At William's College

Eighty students were graduated at the second commencement exercises of William's College on the Chinese Bund at 4 p.m. yesterday. Nineteen of them received diplomas from the high school department of the college and sixty-one from the preparatory department.

The Domestic University Scholarship was won by Chiang Tsaihwa. Several of the high school graduates are planning to pursue higher education in American universities this fall.

H. E. Dzao Lik-Tse, former Minister of Education of the Republic of China, was the principal speaker to address the graduates and Dr. William Liu, president of the college, delivered the opening address, in which he reviewd briefly the history of the institution.

A large gathering of parents and visitors attended the exercises, the elaborately decorated compound of the college being completely filled.

Kuling American School Has Its 8th Graduation

The eighth commencement of Kuling American School and the first to be held in the fine new Kuling auditorium, took place on June 18. Rev. E. J. Lee, secretary of the Board of Managers, presided in the absence of Mr. A. H. Stone, headmaster, home on furlough.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. E. C. Cooper. Mr. Lee gave a short history of the school and of its growth and development during the eight years of its existence. Announcement also was made of the addition of four new members to the staff who are expected from America in time for the opening of the new term in September.

An attractive feature of the program was the music rendered by the entire school in the choruses conducted by Miss Richardson, the instructor in piano.

Miss Esther Keller and William Johnson, the two winners of the declamation contest held the previous Monday repeated their declamations.

The Rev. A. M. Sherman of the Board of Managers awarded the diplomas. Martin Benzeman, Beatrice Gracey, Margaret Dunlap, Louise Gilman, Arthur Gracer, John Jenkins, Edward Lund, Galina Tourchinsky, James Ranck Frances Roots, Martha Sherman, Marjorie Tooker, William Voss, Robert Wilson.

Benediction was pronounced by Bishop Bannister.

DEFENDANT GETS JUDGMENT IN THE BRITISH COURT

Judgment for the defendant, with costs, was given by Judge Sir Skinner Turner of the British Supreme Court yesterday in the case in which Gaya Deen sued D. P. Das for Tls. 1,000, photographic materials to the value of $876 and furniture to the value of $323 alleged to have been deposited by plaintiff with the defendant and wrongfully detained.

Mr. L. K. Kentwell represented the defendant and Mr. P. W. Goldring the plaintiff.

As regarded the photographic material, the Judge held that there was little evidence such an amount had ever been in plaintiff's possession at all. Any property was in the hands of plaintiff's attorney, his brother-in-law, but the Court could find no evidence of its being handed to the defendant. The same applied to the furniture. Dealing with the deposit of Tls. 1,000, plaintiff on leaving for India had handed the deposit receipt to his brother-in-law, and according to his own statement it was handed to defendant for some reason or other. Nothing was done about it until January, 1919, when it was to all intents and purposes, cashed at the bank when handed in by Das, who at the same time took out a deposit receipt in his own name, which remained in the bank until January of this year. Plaintiff was informed what had been done with it last September but it was not until January of this year, that application was made for the money from the defendant. Defendant now stated that he had purchased the receipt for cash and an I. O. U. If plaintiff could not cash the receipt in Shanghai before he left, the Judge said he could see no reason why he had not taken it to India, where the bank had branches. If defendant had meant to cheat plaintiff the Court hardly thought that he would have deposited the money in his own name, his obvious course being to cash it. The Court held that the plaintiff had failed to prove his claim and judgment, with costs, would be entered for the defendant.

Tingle And Canion To Meet In Championship Bout In Carlton Program Tonight

Keenan And De Dios To Be Seen In Semi-Final, With Two Other Scraps To Complete Card; Fights To Be On Roof If Weather Permits

By Westa

Tonight's boxing card at the Carlton will find Billy Tingle and Rufe Canion thumping each other in the final event, and as this is advertised as a championship scrap the milling should be quite lively. As to the respective merits of the two boys little could be said that is not already known, particularly as regards Tingle. Billy has been here so long that he has come to be looked upon as an old resident, and naturally the boxing fans and fannettes know pretty well what he can do.

As to Canion, the fans here have hardly had a chance to get a line on him. He has had one scrap here, with Syd Keenan, but that battle did not indicate much as Rufe busted one of his hands in the third round and had to watch his step carefully from that time on. The Filipino boys say he is a fast and willing battler and that he has a punch.

At any rate, with Tingle in the ring the customers are sure to get a run for their money. Billy is a hard worker and while he isn't invulnerable by any means he generally manages to make it interesting.

The semi final will be taken up with another clash between Syd Keenan and Faustino De Dios. Syd ought to win this bout, at least on points, although it can be said for De Dios that he has been coming along rapidly since his first appearance here, when Kid Carletos managed to stay eleven and half rounds with him. Faustino probably would knock Carletos for seventeen loops in as many seconds now.

Syd was quite peeved the last time because he couldn't flatten De Dios, and had to stand for considerable kidding about it in cauliflower ear circles. This time he is out to prove that Faustino isn't in a class with him, which ought to make it a good scrap.

The management advertises "two other good bouts," but does not give the names of the principals. A lot of the customers have expressed a hope that the fightin' Russian who tumbled Kid Kyko last week will be on the bill again. The trouble is that he is of a weight that is hard to meet with the talent at present in our midst, although he and Kid Volaire might make a decent scrap. Volaire is the boy who chased Bobby Favacho all over the ring a couple of weeks ago.

If the weather is good Louie will have the ring pitched on the roof, up among the breezes. Otherwise the boys will toff in the dining room.

SOUTH AFRICANS BEAT HAMPSHIRE IN EXCITING GAME

Have But Few Minutes To Spare At End Of Match

(Reuter's Service)

Southampton, June 24.—The weather was hot and there was a small attendance on the final day of the Hampshire-South Africans match. The wicket was wearing well.

Hampshire carried their unfinished 2nd innings to 330. Fowler made 50, Brown 55 and Newman 60. Bissett took 5 wickets for 102. The innings lasted 4¼ hours.

The Africans made 275 for 5 wickets. Taylor played a magnificent, chanceless innings for 93. He batted for 2 hours and 13 minutes and hit eleven 4s. Sussknd made 44. The South Africans thus won with a few minutes to spare after an exciting fight.

Scores: Hampshire 279 and 330. South Africans 336 and 275 for 5 wickets.

TENNIS STARS AT WIMBLEDON DRAW IMMENSE THRONG

Favorites For Final Honors, Men And Women, Win

(Reuter's Service)

Wimbledon, June 24.—The second round of the Lawn Tennis Championships was played today in glorious weather before a crowd of 15,000. The spectators included a large proportion of women, attracted by the first appearance of Mlle Lenglen and Miss Wills. The scene was brilliant with sunshades of all colors and wonderful dress creations. The day was one of thrills and surprises.

Wimbledon has never seen finer tennis than that in the match where M. Lacoste defeated Senor Samuel Alonso 2-6, 6-2, 13-15, 6-3, 6-1. Lacoste showed himself versatile and untiring. His passing shots were brilliant. Alonso gave a magnificent exhibition of fore-hand net-work and volleying, but tired after the third set.

The Australian, Mr. J. Bayley's defeat, of Mr. Randolph Lycett 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, was the surprise of the day.

The three Americans, Messrs. Hunter, Richards and Washburn, entered the third, as likewise did the British players Mr. Gilbert, Colonel Kingscote, and Messrs. Dreir, Leighton-Crawford and [illegible]. Mr. Hunter beat Mr. J. Hillyard 6-3, 6-2. Mr. Vincent [illegible]rds beat Mr. R. Dash 6-0, 6-3, and Mr. Washburn beat the Canadian international, Mr. H. Mayes, 4-6, 6-4, 6-0, 5-7, 6-4.

The Frenchman, M. Jean Borotra, beat Mr. Max Woosnam 6-3, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Mr. Harada (Japan) beat Mr. E. Crawshay-Williams 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, and Mr. Fukuda (Japan) beat Mr. T. Mavrogordato 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

In the first round Mr. Norris-Williams beat Mr. E. Maguire 6-0, 6-4, 6-4.

In the first round of the Ladies Championship Mlle Lenglen beat Miss Lumley-Ellis 6-0, 6-0. Miss Wills beat Miss Scharman 6-1, 6-0. Miss Ryan beat Mrs. Bouverie 6-0, 6-0. Mrs. Mallory beat Miss Harvey 7-5, 6-3.

American Fiscal Advisers Build Up Persian Finances

Succeed In Two-Fold Task Of Reducing Deficit And Keeping Expenditures Within Limits Of National Revenue

Teheran, May 10.—Little attention appears to have been paid in England to the work of the American financial advisers to the Persian Government, in spite of the fact that it is of great interest to English people; for not only does it herald the first invasion in force of Americans as "advisers" to an Eastern Government, but it marks an American attempt to do a job in which we ourselves so manifestly failed. But for the disastrous policy of our Foreign Office in the years immediately following the war—a policy adopted by Whitehall in defiance of the advice of British officials on the spot—British advisers might still be accredited to the Persian Government.

However, this is an old story and all that we can do now is to take an interested glance over the work of our successors, and wish them better results than we had ourselves.

The Americans have now been at work, under the leadership of Dr. A. C. Millspaugh, for a year and a half, and their work can now be viewed fully over five quarters, ending approximately at Christmas, 1923. The figures for the quarter which has since elapsed are not yet available.

Briefly, the task which the Americans have had to face is twofold. They have had to reduce and, if possible wipe out the deficit in the revenue due to taxes and dues credited on paper to the Government failing to reach their legal destination, and they have had to insure that the expenditure of the Government should be reduced to a point where it could be covered by incoming revenue. In short, to stop leakages and extravagance.

Before their arrival the Persian Government was, from these and other causes, dropping deeper into debt every year. Arrears of debt were accumulating and involving a larger and larger percentage of current revenue. Since the Americans came the average monthly deficit has been reduced from 900,000 tomans to 130,000 tomans (at the present rate of exchange the toman is worth about $1). For the last twelve months all legal current expenses of the Government have been paid and substantial payments made against past arrears. The actual excess of expenditure over revenue in the last completed Persian year amounted to well over 500,000 tomans, but this included nearly 800,000 tomans paid on account of arrears. The deficit this year is expected to be practically wiped out. The achievement of such results in so short a time may be considered highly satisfactory.

REVENUE IMPROVEMENT

The estimate of revenue for the Persian year which has just concluded is 24,000,000 tomans. The American proposals for new taxes include a Chancellery stamp tax, a tax on new buildings, an income tax, a trade tax, a tax on negotiable instruments and an excess tax on delinquent taxpayers. The credits sanctioned by the Mejliss in the year just concluded amounted to 22,937,856 tomans. The estimate of Government indebtedness for the year is 1,913,519 tomans, including 663,281 tomans for the funded debt service and 900,000 tomans for repayment of bank advances. Customs receipts for the first eight months of the year which has just concluded show an increase of 423,289 tomans, the largest increase being in import duties (396,066 tomans).

The income from Customs would be greater if the 1920 tariff were applied to the northern frontier: at present Russian imports still enter Persia under the old preferential tariff.

One great difficulty faced by the Americans has been the old habit of documents of taxation from the provinces as cash and crediting itself with them as such in the Budget accounts. One of the first reforms introduced by the new advisers was the insistence upon crediting the Government only with cash actually received. It is noticeable that the figures of receipts from taxes for the first eight months of the late Persian year show an increase of Ts. 161,603 over the preceding year; if promissory notes, etc., are added, the increase is Ts. 1,911,603.

In addition, the Americans have succeeded in settling the cases of various large provincial Governors whose actual indebtedness to the central Government had been the subject of dispute for many years. One at least of these settlements is highly favorable to the central Government and includes a large sum paid in cash.

AMERICANS POPULAR

Last, but not least, several small but violent emergencies have had had to be tackled since the arrival of the advisers. For instance, in December, 1922, famine threatened the City of Teheran, and was only averted by energetic precautionary measures; at one time only two days' wheat supply was available for the population. The refugee problem at Urmiah and the earthquake at Torbat have also given rise to certain problems of financial administration inevitable in a country where money given in charity is frequently diverted into the pockets of people not in need but influential.

Naturally the Americans have not been free from criticism. They have been accused of neglecting to make payments promptly, of withholding necessary supplies, of inducing the Government to favor American concession hunters, and so on. Sometimes the criticisms emanate from Persian sources, and sometimes from European. Local criticism is inevitable in a country which has supported so many governmental hangers for so long a time as Persia.

The case of some local complainants has been not without a certain tinge of humor. One provincial potentate, for instance, who had been loud in his accusations against the unfairness of the American administrators was later compelled in a Persian court to admit large frauds against the Government which he is now engaged in making good. The complaints made by certain Europeans that the American administration has resulted in favoritism in granting trade concessions, may be held to be groundless.

Americans are highly popular with the Persian people, which fact is quite sufficient to turn the scales in their favor; their popularity is natural, for they are the only people not associated in the Persian mind with some unpleasant political scandal of the past. For this the European nations have only themselves to thank; they have had, in sporting phraseology, a pretty long run for their money, and they have failed, from the Persian point of view, to deliver the goods.

Assurance Franco-Asiatique

The fifth annual general meeting of shareholders of the above concern was held at the head office of the company, 7 Avenue Edward VII, on June 17.—The Rev. Pere Sallou presided, supported by Messrs. M. Speelman, R. Fano, J. Sauvayre (Directors) and other shareholders.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, the Chairman said:—In conformity with the Articles of Association of the Company, your Directors beg to present you for the fifth time the accounts of the Company, and submit for your approval the balance sheet and profit and loss account for the twelve months ending December 31, 1923.

The premiums received, after deduction of reinsurances, in respect of fire, marine and motor car and general insurance, were Frcs. 6,481,549, being an increase for the year of Frcs. 396,540.73 over 1922.

The claims paid and to be paid amounted to Frcs. 3,631,516.42.

After adding interest and other credit balances and deducting commissions, general expenses, etc., there is a credit balance of Frcs. 3,351,856, out of which reserves for unexpired risks amounting to Frcs. 2,923,902.07, a reserve for commissions payable of Frcs. 115,399.48, and a reserve for fluctuation of investments of Frcs. 21,648.00 have to be provided, leaving a balance of Frcs. 290,907.21, which your Directors recommend to allocate as follows:

20% to legal reserve (Art. of Assoc. Art. 43, VII)	Frcs. 58,181.24
To write off 20% of the furniture and fixtures carried at Frcs. 163,679.46 in the balance sheet	32,725.89
To carry to the reserve for bad and doubtful debts	100,000.00
To carry forward to 1924	99,990.08
	Frcs. 290,907.21

Accident Branch: France.—During his stay in France, your Managing Director, Mr. Speelman, after carefully studying the question with your Paris Manager, decided to open the accident branch, writing all forms of accident insurance.

The necessary authorisation for the establishment of this branch was given by the Ministere du Travail after the security required by law had been deposited. The funds necessary to establish the reserves have been transferred from the special reserve of Frcs. 1,000,000 established on Dec. 31, 1922, and we ask you to give this decision your approval.

The accident branch has been doing business since the beginning of January, under the management of Mr. Crieb, assisted by Mr. Baudot. The offices have been opened in the Company's building, 85 Rue St-Lazare, Paris. The initial deposit was settled at Frcs. 400,000.00

Securities have been deposited, valued at the time of deposit at Frcs. 430,125.00, leaving an excess of guarantee furnished of	30,125.00
There remains a balance of	569,875.00
to be applied as the business required.
	Frcs. 1,000,000.00

Before proposing the adoption of the report and accounts, I shall be glad to answer any questions to the best of my ability.

No questions were asked and the following resolutions were carried unanimously:

Resolutions 1 and 2 proposed by the Rev. Pere Sallou, seconded by Mr. Fano:

1. That the report of the Directors and statement of accounts for the year ending December 31, 1923, as presented, be accepted and passed.

2. (a) That the special reserve be transferred to provide the accident insurance funds.

(b) That Frcs. 58,181.24 be carried to the legal reserve.

(c) That the furniture and fixtures be written off to the extent of Frcs. 32,735.89.

(d) That Frcs. 100,000 be carried to the reserve for bad and doubtful debts.

(e) That Frcs. 99,990.08 be carried forward.

Resolution 3, proposed by Mr. Donne, seconded by Mr. Straetmans, that Messrs. Rev. Pere Sallou, J. Beudin and Li Shengtai be re-elected Directors.

Resolution 4, proposed by Mr. Speelman, seconded by Mr. Sauvayre, that Messrs. Seth, Mancell and McLure be re-elected auditors for the year 1924.

Resolution 5, proposed by Mr. J. Thesmar, seconded by the Rev. Pere Sallou, that Maitre A. du Pac de Marsoulies be re-elected legal advisor for the year 1924.

A Man Is Known By The Teeth He Keeps

BY WOODS HUTCHINSON, A. M., M. D.,
(Eminent Physician)

Humans are proverbially imperfect; but, theorists to the contrary, this isn't wholly due to wrong upbringing; for even when we first come into this world we leave several things to be desired.

As one small maiden, after most unwillingly acting as nursemaid for her baby brother, crossly declared, "That kid has no hair, and no teeth, and no manners. I wisht the angels had finished him before they turned him loose!" And there is no denying the first two of these infantile imperfections, however sure we may be that our own small precious one is entirely free from the third.

One of the most interesting moments in a baby's life is when the first pearly tooth peeks timidly out of his pink little gums, and then, as if reassured by the chorus of family applause with which it is greeted, comes out completely, to be quickly followed by its less adventurous brethren.

THE TEETHING PERIOD

It is both right and proper that the successful cutting of the first tooth should be a cause of rejoicing in the family; for it means that one of the most fretful and uncomfortable experiences of his early life is practically over; and marks a definite advance from the appealing but utter helplessness of infancy toward the strength and activity of happy, growing childhood.

Few things can be of greater assistance in his continued progress than a well-formed set of "first" teeth, kept in top-notch condition from the moment they begin to appear until the time when they give way to the permanent set, some six to ten years later.

Formerly, there was a tendency to regard the "milk teeth" as unimportant, simply because they were not permanent, but it is one of the most important and formative periods of the child's existence, when he is beginning to "line up," both mentally and physically, for the whole of his future development. He should have all the help we can give him, and especially should not be hampered by defective teeth or gums.

BACTERIOLOGICAL THUGS

Milk teeth should be inspected and polished and filled, and when necessary crowned, or capped, as thoroughly and carefully as the permanent ones. Moreover, recent investigations have so clearly shown the menace of infected teeth or inflamed gums in both children and adults as sources of infections—regular "hang-outs" for bacteriologic thugs, such as the germs of rheumatism, heart disease, Bright's disease, dyspepsia—that they should be cleaned up and kept so for this reason if no other.

And, as if all this was not enough, badly shaped or neglected "milk teeth" may damage, displace, or even practically destroy the permanent teeth, which are slowly coming up beneath them. So that the latter may actually appear with soft spots already present in the enamel, or out of their proper alignment; or, if badly "impacted," may fail to appear at all.

Thus there are reasons in plenty for devoting the most anxious and respectful attention to the care and welfare of these transient teeth. Indeed, so important is this work now regarded that pre-school dental clinics are being established in hundreds of schools and hospitals, and parents are urged to bring in all their children, especially those of pre-school age, so that any dental defects may be detected and corrected at the earliest possible stage of their development.

A SEMI-ANNUAL "ONCE-OVER"

These clinics have yet another incidental value; for a routine examination of the teeth and mouth may often result in the discovery of adenoids, or enlarged tonsils, or of blocked nasal passages or inflamed eardrums, or imperfections of vision—all of which can be much more easily cured when caught early.

So, either take your children to your own family dentist and doctor, or to a dental clinic every six months for a general "once over," not merely of the teeth, but of the whole mouth and throat, and you'll have gone a long way towards assuring their steady growth in health and happiness.

An ounce of toothpaste is worth a pound of amalgam filling, and a liberal and intelligent use of the former will go far towards lessening the need of the latter at all ages of life. Modern toothpastes are roughly divided into two camps, the acids and the alkali, or the "vinegars" versus the "soaps." Each camp claims that it leaves the proper chemical reaction in the mouth, against the forces of decay; and dentists are about equally divided as to their respective merits. So the simplest way is to alternate between two good toothpastes, one of each type, acting on the 'shot-gun" principle that whatever one of them doesn't get, the other very probably will—provided that both are used frequently, and backed by an actively wielded toothbrush of a firm but elastic temper.

This should be chosen with the greatest care; for, while firm it must not be scratchy, or it will do more harm than good. As a rule, a slightly curved or concave brush, with a "corrugated" scrubbing surface, will fit in better between the teeth and do better work than one of the old style "nail brush" variety with its straight frame and unbroken line of bristles. The minute that it shows signs of weakening and begins to shed bristles when on active service it should be discarded; for a broken reed has nothing on a moulting toothbrush for undependability in time of dental danger.

DIET VITAL TO TEETH

The individual who defined a restaurant as a "tooth-and-jaw-gymnasium" was really not so very far wrong; for our food should not only supply us with fuel but also keep our teeth in good trim.

We have always had an instinctive dislike to living too largely on soft, non-chewable things—"slops" and "spoon meat," as we scornfully term them—and this anticipathy is well founded. Just as soon as the first teeth begin to appear the diet should become solider, in both senses of the word. This should of course be done gradually, and the "crunchables," such as bits of toast or crust, or slivers of apple or pear, should have real food value.

The ancient but rather disgusting custom of giving the small one a piece of bacon rind tied up in cheesecloth to "chaw at" has fallen into the discard, though attempts are being made to revive it on account of the nutriment in the bacon grease and the exercise it gives the teeth.

IDLE TEETH DECAY

Teething rings are inadvisable because of the virtual impossibility of keeping them really clean and aseptic. When "the Boss of the house" finally cuts his small teeth, his adoring family may be sorely tempted to keep on feeding him solider and solider things, just for the joy of seeing him "down" them; but here, as everywhere, moderation should be the keynote. Beginning with soft crusts and bits of orange-pulp at about the fifth month, small pieces of meat can be added soon afterwards; and larger and solider things can gradually be added thenceforth.

Great attention should be paid to securing a properly balanced diet, even before the first tooth appears; for few parts of the system are more promptly or more unfavorably affected by an ill-adjusted diet than the teeth. This applies both to those which have appeared and to those which are still beneath the surface; the enamel will develop flaws and weak spots, and the whole tooth will fairly seem to melt in aggravated cases

When it is remembered that enamel is one of the few bodily substances which cannot replace itself, the seriousness of this is apparent.

VITAMINES NEEDED

Experts at the great dental infirmaries are now declaring that a proper supply of vitamies in the food, that is milk, cream, green vegetables, fresh fruits, cereals, is the most important single factor in the growth of firm, healthy teeth. And they express the hope that proper diet may render must of the present dental repair work unnecessary.

For instance, Dr. Gross, the director of the great Forsyth Dental Infirmary of Boston, asserts that "all adult dental diseases, except pyorrhea (Riggs disease), are the result of poor tooth development and neglect of proper diet and hygiene during childhood," and that "mothers before the baby comes, must take the responsibility of giving good or bad teeth to their offspring" by proper diet.

Another enemy of good teeth is severe infection or prolonged illness of almost any variety. This is not merely because of any damage which their toxins in the blood may do to "permanents" while these are forming beneath the milk set, but also because of the enforced idleness of the "active service" teeth, coupled with their comparative neglect during the course of the illness becoming hot and dry, as it too often tends to be in a severe illness; for this aggravates matters still further by checking the normal flow of cleansing saliva and thus permitting crusts to form around the roots and in the "chinks" between the teeth, to the great danger of the enamel.

Acid drinks, such as lemonade or other fruit juices, are very useful in stimulating the natural moisture of the mouth, while lemon drops and even the lowly chewing gum may also serve the purpose, especially during convalescence.

Eminent authorities declare that it is generally advisable to give the teeth something to work on during illness, even if it is only a small bit of toast or fresh fruit, or salad greens, at least once a day; for this will not only have a slightly cleansing effect but will also keep the teeth from getting "rusty" and out of practice. And no matter how carefully the teeth may have been kept during an illness, a thorough dental "once over" should always be made upon recovery, to make sure that everything is getting along properly and to correct at the earliest moment any trouble which may have developed.

DENTAL CLINICS GROWING

Good dentistry is, in the public opinion, rapidly changing from a moderate luxury to an absolute necessity. As a result, splendid dental clinics are springing up all over America, and are steadily increasing in size, number, and fields of activity.

Perhaps the most famous examples of private generosity in this line are the superb Forsyth Dental Infirmary of Boston, as beautiful as a Greek temple in its marble and white tile and plate glass and with its tens of thousands of little patients every year, the gift of three big-hearted, old bachelor brothers, and the Rochester (N. Y.) Dental Clinic. This latter was made possible by the liberality of Mr. George Eastman, though much credit must also be given to certain of his public-spirited fellow citizens, as well as to an unusually able and progressive city government, whose whole-hearted co-operation has had much to do with the success of the plan.

The clinic is intended to take care of the teeth of children between the ages of five months and sixteen years; mothers are urged to bring in their babies to special first-tooth clinics just as soon as the first tooth appears: and it is the aim of the clinic to keep track of every tooth that follows it until the child is almost fully grown.

A NICKEL A TREATMENT

In the earliest ages of life the children can be brought to the clinic by their parents, and during their more advanced years they may realise the value of good teeth for themselves; but there is an intermediate age when the immediate discomfort of dental work might loom so large in the mind of the small patient and its ultimate benefit seem so far away that he would be somewhat "gun-shy" of repeated visits.

This difficulty has been overcome by a stroke of positive genius; every time the young patient comes to the clinic he is rewarded with a nickel—and promised another each time he comes until the work is finished. A better way of assuring prompt and repeated attendance, with the need of "follow-up" work reduced to a minimum, could hardly be imagined. As illustrated by the fact that out of 65,000 treatments given last year, 55,000 were "sugar-coated," or rather "nickel-plated."

There is no longer even the possibility of argument about the value, both esthetic and hygienic of well-kept, well-formed teeth, for both personal appearance and general efficiency depend so largely upon them. Teeth make the man and a man is known by the teeth that he keeps.

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three succesive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious.

Notice To Subscribers

In an endeavor to produce an even better paper than was formerly the case—an endeavor which the steadily growing popularity of THE CHINA PRESS has proved to be successful—the publishers have recently increased the editorial staff, supplemented the cable and foreign correspondence services, added a pictorial news section, and improved the editorial and feature contents. These improvements naturally entail a much heavier cost of production, and thus we are reluctantly compelled to increase our rates of subscription, as from April 1st, as follows:

One Year	Mex.	$28.00
Six Months	"	15.00
Four Months	"	10.50
One Month	"	2.75

Postage to outports, etc. $6.00 per annum extra.

Under the new rates subscribers will still obtain THE CHINA PRESS more cheaply than it can be purchased day by day on the street. Allowing 312 publishing days to the year (230 weekdays and 52 Sundays), the annual cost, if purchased on the street, is $36.40.

Dotted Lines show where Rubber is cultivated

RUBBER PRODUCTS THAT ARE UNIFORMLY GOOD

A little over 15 years ago the United States Rubber Company started their own rubber plantations in Sumatra and the Malay Peninsula. They did this that they might always be certain of securing crude rubber unvarying in quality.

Today the United States Rubber Company owns 172 square miles of rubber plantations and 5,000,000 carefully selected rubber trees under the constant care and supervision of a corps of tree experts.

Recently this company announced two revolutionary advances in the art of rubber manufacture: The New Sprayed Rubber and The New Web Cord.

The first of these ensures your getting rubber articles made from the purest virgin rubber ever produced. A rubber with all its natural properties unimpaired by the addition of smoke residues and chemicals. The second advance means a cord tire of a quality even more consistent than ever before.

United States Rubber products always have been leaders in the rubber industry. Now—due to these two startling discoveries, you can be assured of rubber products that are more than ever uniformly good.

Chinese Admiral Wants Navy To Keep Woosung Field

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 22.—In connection with the recent report that the Ministry of Communications wanted to take over the Tung Chih College at Woosung and convert it into a Navigation College, it is now reported that the Minister of the Navy has drawn the attention of the Cabinet to the fact that the area in question was first given to the Ministry of the Navy, and that, while the Tung Chih College has recently been in possession of the College buildings, a large compound attached to the College has been used by the Ministry of the Navy as a Naval aviation experimental station. In a memorial to the President, Admiral Li Ting-hsin makes no objection to the Ministry of Communcations taking over the College, but urges that the aviation compound shall remain under the control of the Ministry of the Navy, which will establish on that site a Marine Survey Bureau.

A Man Is Known By The Teeth He Keeps

BY WOODS HUTCHINSON, A. M., M. D.,
(Eminent Physician)

Humans are proverbially imperfect; but, theorists to the contrary, this isn't wholly due to wrong upbringing; for even when we first come into this world we leave several things to be desired.

An one small maiden, after most unwillingly acting as nursemaid for her baby brother, crossly declared, "That kid has no hair, and no teeth, and no manners. I wisht the angels had finished him before they turned him loose!" And there is no denying the first two of these infantile imperfections, however sure we may be that our own small precious one is entirely free from the third.

One of the most interesting moments in a baby's life is when the first pearly tooth peeks timidly out of his pink little gums, and then, as if reassured by the chorus of family applause with which it is greeted, comes out completely, to be quickly followed by its less adventurous brethren.

THE TEETHING PERIOD

It is both right and proper that the successful cutting of the first tooth should be a cause of rejoicing in the family; for it means that one of the most fretful and uncomfortable experiences of his early life is practically over, and marks a definite advance from the appealing but utter helplessness of infancy toward the strength and activity of happy, growing childhood.

Few things can be of greater assistance in his continued progress than a well-formed set of "first" teeth, kept in top-notch condition from the moment they begin to appear until the time when they give way to the permanent set, some six to ten years later.

Formerly, there was a tendency to regard the "milk teeth" as unimportant, simply because they were not permanent, but it is one of the most important and formative periods of the child's existence, when he is beginning to "line up," both mentally and physically, for the whole of his future development. He should have all the help we can give him, and especially should not be hampered by defective teeth or gums.

BACTERIOLOGICAL THUGS

Milk teeth should be inspected and polished and filled, and when necessary crowned, or capped, as thoroughly and carefully as the permanent ones. Moreover, recent investigations have so clearly shown the menace of infected teeth or inflamed gums in both children and adults as sources of infections—regular "hang-outs" for bacteriologic thugs, such as the germs of rheumatism, heart disease, Bright's disease, dyspepsia—that they should be cleaned up and kept so for this reason if no other.

And, as if all this was not enough, badly shaped or neglected "milk teeth" may damage, displace, or even practically destroy the permanent teeth, which are slowly coming up beneath them. So that the latter may actually appear with soft spots already present in the enamel, or out of their proper alignment; or, if badly "impacted," may fail to appear at all.

Thus there are reasons in plenty for devoting the most anxious and respectful attention to the care and welfare of these transient teeth. Indeed, so important is this work now regarded that pre-school dental clinics are being established in hundreds of schools and hospitals, and parents are urged to bring in all their children, especially those of pre-school age, so that any dental defects may be detected and corrected at the earliest possible stage of their development.

A SEMI-ANNUAL "ONCE-OVER"

These clinics have yet another incidental value; for a routine examination of the teeth and mouth may often result in the discovery of adenoids, or enlarged tonsils, or of blocked nasal passages or inflamed eardrums, or imperfections of vision—all of which can be much more easily cured when caught early.

So, either take your children to your own family dentist and doctor, or to a dental clinic every six months for a general "once over," not merely of the teeth, but of the whole mouth and throat, and you'll have gone a long way towards assuring their steady growth in health and happiness.

An ounce of toothpaste is worth a pound of amalgam filling, and a liberal and intelligent use of the former will go far towards lessening the need of the latter at all ages of life. Modern toothpastes are roughly divided into two camps, the acids and the alkali, or the "vinegars" versus the "soaps." Each camp claims that it leaves the proper chemical reaction in the mouth, against the forces of decay; and dentists are about equally divided as to their respective merits. So the simplest way is to alternate between two good toothpastes, one of each type, acting on the 'shotgun" principle that whatever one of them doesn't get, the other very probably will—provided that both are used frequently, and backed by an actively wielded toothbrush of a firm but elastic temper.

This should be chosen with the greatest care; for, while firm it must not be scratchy, or it will do more harm than good. As a rule, a slightly curved or concave brush, with a "corrugated" scrubbing surface, will fit in better between the teeth and do better work than one of the old style "nail brush" variety with its straight frame and unbroken line of bristles. The minute that it shows signs of weakening and begins to shed bristles when on active service it should be discarded; for a broken reed has nothing on a moulting toothbrush for undependability in time of dental danger.

DIET VITAL TO TEETH

The individual who defined a restaurant as a "tooth-and-jaw-gymnasium" was really not so very far wrong; for our food should not only supply us with fuel but also keep our teeth in good trim.

We have always had an instinctive dislike to living too largely on soft, non-chewable things—"slops" and "spoon meat," as we scornfully term them—and this antipathy is well founded. Just as soon as the first teeth begin to appear the diet should become solider, in both senses of the word. This should of course be done gradually, and the "crunchables," such as bits of toast or crust, or slivers of apple or pear, should have real food value.

The ancient but rather disgusting custom of giving the small one a piece of bacon rind tied up in cheesecloth to "chaw at" has fallen into the discard, though attempts are being made to revive it on account of the nutriment in the bacon grease and the exercise it gives the teeth.

IDLE TEETH DECAY

Teething rings are inadvisable because of the virtual impossibility of keeping them really clean and aseptic. When "the Boss of the house" finally cuts his small teeth, his adoring family may be sorely tempted to keep on feeding him solider and solider things, just for the joy of seeing him "down" them; but here, as everywhere, moderation should be the keynote. Beginning with soft crusts and bits of orange-pulp at about the fifth month, small pieces of meat can be added soon afterwards; and larger and solider things can gradually be added thenceforth.

Great attention should be paid to securing a properly balanced diet, even before the first tooth appears; for few parts of the system are more promptly or more unfavorably affected by an ill-adjusted diet than the teeth. This applies both to those which have appeared and to those which are still beneath the surface; the enamel will develop flaws and weak spots, and the whole tooth will fairly seem to melt in aggravated cases

When it is remembered that enamel is one of the few bodily substances which cannot replace itself, the seriousness of this is apparent.

VITAMINES NEEDED

Experts at the great dental infirmaries are now declaring that a proper supply of vitamies in the food, that is milk, cream, green vegetables, fresh fruits, cereals, is the most important single factor in the growth of firm, healthy teeth. And they express the hope that proper diet may render must of the present dental repair work unnecessary.

For instance, Dr. Gross, the director of the great Forsyth Dental Infirmary of Boston, asserts that "all adult dental diseases, except pyorrhea (Riggs disease), are the result of poor tooth development and neglect of proper diet and hygiene during childhood," and that "mothers before the baby comes, must take the responsibility of giving good or bad teeth to their offspring" by proper diet.

Another enemy of good teeth is severe infection or prolonged illness of almost any variety. This is not merely because of any damage which their toxins in the blood may do to "permanents" while these are forming beneath the milk set, but also because of the enforced idleness of the "active service" teeth, coupled with their comparative neglect during the course of the illness becoming hot and dry, as it too often tends to be in a severe illness; for this aggravates matters still further by checking the normal flow of cleansing saliva and thus permitting crusts to form around the roots and in the "chinks" between the teeth, to the great danger of the enamel.

Acid drinks such as lemonade or other fruit juices, are very useful in stimulating the natural moisture of the mouth, while lemon drops and even the lowly chewing gum may also serve the purpose, especially during convalescence.

Eminent authorities declare that it is generally advisable to give the teeth something to work on during illness, even if it is only a small bit of toast or fresh fruit, or salad greens, at least once a day; for this will not only have a slightly cleansing effect but will also keep the teeth from getting "rusty" and out of practice. And no matter how carefully the teeth may have been kept during an illness, a thorough dental "once over" should always be made upon recovery, to make sure that everything is getting along properly and to correct at the earliest moment any trouble which may have developed.

DENTAL CLINICS GROWING

Good dentistry is, in the public opinion, rapidly changing from a moderate luxury to an absolute necessity. As a result, splendid dental clinics are springing up all over America, and are steadily increasing in size, number, and fields of activity.

Perhaps the most famous examples of private generosity in this line are the superb Forsyth Dental Infirmary of Boston, as beautiful as a Greek temple in its marble and white tile and plate glass and with its tens of thousands of little patients every year, the gift of three big-hearted, old bachelor brothers, and the Rochester (N. Y.) Dental Clinic. This latter was made possible by the liberality of Mr. George Eastman, though much credit must also be given to certain of his public-spirited fellow citizens, as well as to an unusually able and progressive city government, whose whole-hearted co-operation has had much to do with the success of the plan.

The clinic is intended to take care of the teeth of children between the ages of five months and sixteen years; mothers are urged to bring in their babies to special first-tooth clinics just as soon as the first tooth appears: and it is the aim of the clinic to keep track of every tooth that follows it until the child is almost fully grown.

A NICKEL A TREATMENT

In the earliest ages of life the children can be brought to the clinic by their parents, and during their more advanced years they may realise the value of good teeth for themselves; but there is an intermediate age when the immediate discomfort of dental work might loom so large in the mind of the small patient and its ultimate benefit seem so far away that he would be somewhat "gun-shy" of repeated visits.

This difficulty has been overcome by a stroke of positive genius; every time the young patient comes to the clinic he is rewarded with a nickel—and promised another each time he comes until the work is finished. A better way of assuring prompt and repeated attendance, with the need of "follow-up" work reduced to a minimum, could hardly be imagined. As illustrated by the fact that out of 65,000 treatments given last year, 55,000 were "sugar-coated," or rather "nickel-plated."

There is no longer even the possibility of argument about the value, both esthetic and hygienic of well-kept, well-formed teeth, for both personal appearance and general efficiency depend so largely upon them. Teeth make the man and a man is known by the teeth that he keeps.

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:
"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."
CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

Notice To Subscribers

In an endeavor to produce an even better paper than was formerly the case—an endeavor which the steadily growing popularity of THE CHINA PRESS has proved to be successful—the publishers have recently increased the editorial staff, supplemented the cable and foreign correspondence services, added a pictorial news section, and improved the editorial and feature contents. These improvements naturally entail a much heavier cost of production, and thus we are reluctantly compelled to increase our rates of subscription, as from April 1st, as follows:

One Year	Mex. $28.00
Six Months	" 15.00
Four Months	" 10.50
One Month	" 2.75

Postage to outports, etc. $6.00 per annum extra.

Under the new rates subscribers will still obtain THE CHINA PRESS more cheaply than it can be purchased day by day on the street. Allowing 312 publishing days to the year (230 weekdays and 52 Sundays), the annual cost, if purchased on the street, is $36.40.

Dotted Lines show where Rubber is cultivated

RUBBER PRODUCTS THAT ARE UNIFORMLY GOOD

A little over 15 years ago the United States Rubber Company started their own rubber plantations in Sumatra and the Malay Peninsula. They did this that they might always be certain of securing crude rubber unvarying in quality.

Today the United States Rubber Company owns 172 square miles of rubber plantations and 5,000,000 carefully selected rubber trees under the constant care and supervision of a corps of tree experts.

Recently this company announced two revolutionary advances in the art of rubber manufacture: The New Sprayed Rubber and The New Web Cord.

The first of these ensures your getting rubber articles made from the purest virgin rubber ever produced. A rubber with all its natural properties unimpaired by the addition of smoke residues and chemicals. The second advance means a cord tire of a quality even more consistent than ever before.

United States Rubber products always have been leaders in the rubber industry. Now—due to these two startling discoveries, you can be assured of rubber products that are more than ever uniformly good.

Chinese Admiral Wants Navy To Keep Woosung Field

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 22.—In connection with the recent report that the Ministry of Communications wanted to take over the Tung Chih College at Woosung and convert it into a Navigation College, it is now reported that the Minister of the Navy has drawn the attention of the Cabinet to the fact that the area in question was first given to the Ministry of the Navy, and that, while the Tung Chih College has recently been in possession of the College buildings, a large compound attached to the College has been used by the Ministry of the Navy as a Naval aviation experimental station. In a memorial to the President, Admiral Li Ting-hsin makes no objection to the Ministry of Communcations taking over the College, but urges that the aviation compound shall remain under the control of the Ministry of the Navy, which will establish on that site a Marine Survey Bureau.

BISHOP WILLIAM M. BROWN.

Bishop William Montgomery Brown, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of Galion, O., who retired ten years ago as Bishop of Arkansas, will be tried publicly by nine other Bishops in Cleveland, O., on May 27, on charges of heresy, growing out of his recent writings. He declares he expects to place the entire orthodox Christian religion on trial by demanding of all Bishops if they accept the entire Bible literally, adding that if they do they are hopelessly at odds with modern science. This battle between the fundamentalists and modernists is said to be the first heresy trial of a Bishop since the Protestant reformation.

Below: JAMES CURLEY & REAR-AD. W. F. FULLAM

According to the Nice correspondent of the Paris l'Auto, Suzanne Lenglen, world's champion woman tennis player, is ill with jaundice and will be unable to defend her three French championships. In a signed statement Rear Admiral W. F. Fullam, U. S. N., retired, declares there is nothing fundamentally wrong with the American surface fleet, which he says is not inferior to the British. He adds, however, that the Navy is weak in submersibles and aircraft. Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Harris, bizarre central figure in the successful marriage annulment proceedings brought in New York by Beverly D. Harris, formerly vice-president of the National City Bank, is under arrest there on the charge of forging Harris's name to a letter on which she sought to reopen the case on the grounds that he had exonerated her. Mayor James Curley, of Boston, has asked a Senatorial investigation into the collection of funds for the Coolidge campaign committee, alleging a plot to buy the Presidency.

LOOK TO CHINA AND RUSSIA AS MARKETS FOR SILVER

Producing Countries Alarmed Over Surplus

EXCESS IS BIG

Coining Showed Heavy Decrease Last Year

The silver producing countries of the world are beginning to look to China and Soviet Russia as markets for the somewhat alarming surplus production of the white metal for the last two or three years. The world's silver production for 1923 was approximately 239,000,000 ounces, establishing a new high record and exceeding the output of 1922 by 26,000,000 ounces.

The previous high record was 230,900,000 ounces in 1912. The United States showed a gain of 16,000,000 ounces in 1923, and Mexico about 9,000,000 ounces, while the output in Canada and other countries remained about the same. The disposition of this surplus has become a problem.

An announcement that the Soviet plans to place upwards of G.$50,000,000 worth of silver and copper coinage into circulation during the present year has given considerable encouragement to the silver producers in the United States and Mexico. It said also that Manchuria is going in for new coinage of silver, and other nations are mentioned as possible large users of silver within a few years.

DECREASED MINTING

China minted some 30,000,000 ounces of silver in 1923, a decrease of about 5,000,000 ounces from the previous year. Mexico coined about 11,500,000 ounces in 1923, against 9,600,000 ounces in 1922. In 1923 the United States purchased under the Pittman Act approximately 50,000,000 ounces of silver, as against 62,000,000 in 1922. As a result of a favorable monsoon, India showed a substantial trade revival in 1923. Bazaar demand for silver was extremely heavy and constant, and shipments of silver to India for the year approximated 100,000,000 ounces.

On May 1, 1924, there was 54,823,121 standard silver dollars in circulation in the United States. Silver certificates in circulation amounted to 370,093,061, and subsidiary silver totalled $252,701,988. Gold coin in circulation on the same date amounted to $403,648,561, and gold certificates, $726,179,259. The total amount of all money in circulation in the United States on May 1 was $4,760,113,559, or a per capita circulation of $42.33.

In reviewing the silver situation in China for 1923, Handy & Harmon, of New York City, State: "While political unrest still continues to disturb China and trade development has been hampered, good crops, generally stable exchange conditions, firm prices of staple products, and a profitable export business in tea and silk gave great buying power to Chinese merchants, and demand for silver more than equalled that of 1922, imports being about 77,000,000 ounces, an increase of 10 percent."

FOR THE ARTS

The same report continues: "The amount of silver used in manufactures and arts is fairly constant. The last annual report of the director of the mint gives the world's industrial consumption in 1922 as 59,869,000 ounces or 28 percent of the 1922 world production. England used 4,000,000 ounces in the arts last year, compared with 4,500,000 ounces in 1922. We estimate that the United States has consumed 29,250,000 ounces in 1923, as compared with 24,000,000 ounces in the previous year. New silver consumed in the manufacture of [illegible] amount ed to approximately 5,480,000 ounces, included in the total above.

"Silver coinage has wholly disappeared in the countries of Central Europe as a monetary metal. In other countries where subsidary coinage debasement has occurred, quantities of silver thus released have been sold and added to this year's supplies of the metal. From London sources we learn that silver sold by the British Government due to reduction in fineness of its silver coinage came to 25,000,000 ounces in 1923, compared with 24,000,000 for 1922, and that the imports from the Continent totaled 28,000,000 ounces, consisting mostly of melted Austrian, Czecho-Slovakian and Russian coins.'

The silver mined in Japan in 1922, according to an official government report, amounted to 123,152,374 grammes, valued at Y.5,636,903. The silver minted during 1922 was confined to 50-sen coins, of which there were 38,172,558 pieces. The subsidiary silver coins in Japan are of two denominations: 20 sen

Shanghai Tramways Co. Pays 20 Percent For Year

The eighteenth annual general meeting of the Shanghai Electric Construction Co., Ltd., was held at Basildon House, Moorgate, London, E.C., on Wednesday, May 28, Sir Alfred Dent, K.C.M.G. (chairman of the company), presiding.

The secretary (Mr. L. W. Hawkins) having read the notice convening the meeting and the report of the auditors, the chairman said:

The Report and Accounts have been in your hands for a week and I assume that in accordance with the usual practice, you will take them as read. The operating profit at £101,771 shows an increase of £4,773 as compared with the preceding year, and this is the first occasion on which it has run into six figures. The growth of our business in Shanghai ought to have resulted in a far greater addition to our profits, but was to a large extent neutralised as the result of the loss sustained by depreciation of subsidiary coinage, to which I shall refer later. There was a considerable falling off in the profit on exchange, partly because the rate was not so favorable as in the preceding year and partly because material sums were absorbed locally in capital expenditure, and in renewals, and were therefore not available for remittance. Renewals will continue to be heavy for some time to come. There are some other variations which are not of sufficient importance to call for comment. The net result is a profit, before making appropriations, of £107,433, as compared with £113,299.

As regards appropriations, we have maintained the allocation to reserve for renewals at £15,000, and the reduction in the rate of Corporation Profits Tax from 1s. in the £ to 6d. half way through the year has allowed us to set aside £4,000 as compared with £5,000 in the preceding year. The appropriation to the Staff Provident Fund is less than last year because it includes only the annual contribution and not the initial grant. After making these appropriations there remains a balance sufficient to permit of a final dividend of 8 percent., making 20 percent for the year, and the amount carried forward is the substantial sum of £24,393, being £7,364 in excess of the amount brought in.

COINAGE DEPRECIATION

The increased loss by depreciation of subsidiary coinage is the result of a higher percentage applied to larger takings, and amounted to £168,450. When I addressed you last year the directors had under consideration the desirability of revising the scale of fares, in such a way as to offset this loss to some extent, but it was not until the last week of January this year that it was practicable to carry this intention into effect. The result was immediately apparent, and although, as might be expected, we carried somewhat fewer passengers, we obtained a higher average per passenger and a very appreciable increase in effective receipts, which is reflected in an improvement in the operating profit for each month since the change took place.

The long drawn-out negotiations with the Municipal Council for a concession to extend the electric system under railless traction, have only recently reached finality. The matter has been referred to in the report of the directors year after year, in the belief that the completion of the concession would not long be delayed, but it was not until the 17th inst. that it was signed.

The development to be undertaken is of great importance, inasmuch as it provides for the opening, during the next three years, of about fifteen miles of new traffic routes which have been selected in such a way that they will be co-ordinated with the tramway system, and our route mileage will thereby be nearly doubled. By a rearrangement of overhead wires, it will be possible to run trams and trolley 'buses over the same routes, which will permit of the necessary frequency of service in the denser traffic areas. Arrangements for the equipment of the extensions are well forward, and we have already ordered sample chassis for the new cars.

A satisfactory feature of the railless concession is that our capital expenditure under it will be in respect of our own property. We shall have nothing to pay for the reconstruction of the roads, which is undertaken by the Council, and is already well advanced. By way of recouping the Council for its capital outlay and the cost of maintaining the roads, we are to pay two cents for every car mile run by the trolley 'buses, in addition to the 5 percent royalty on gross receipts. It is noteworthy that whereas the undertaking as it now stands has cost well over half a million sterling, the route mileage will be nearly doubled by the expenditure of about half that sum. Minor extensions of the tramway system, mainly in the form of doubling of track, are being taken in hand concurrently with development under railless traction.

NEW CAPITAL ISSUE

In order to provide for the important extensions now in contemplation, further money will be required, and it is proposed to make an issue of 100,000 new shares, the creation of which you will be asked to sanction at this meeting. The price of issue of the new shares is to be £2 per share, and shareholders will be entitled to take them up in the

BACK AT CRICKET.
Ceylon Sportsman Tells How After a Serious Illness DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS Rebuilt His Strength

Sub-Inspector F. K. Jonklaas, of the Colombo Police Force, is well-known in Ceylon as a keen sportsman and ardent boxer and cricketer. It was a sad day for Mr. Jonklaas when sickness knocked him out, and he found the long period of convalescence especially trying. His eventual restoration to health and strength, and work and play, he gladly states was greatly accelerated by the tonic virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I had pneumonia and pleurisy and a stay of six weeks in hospital resulted," says Mr. Jonklaas.

Mr. F. K. Jonklaas

"Even after coming out I was still very weak and confined to bed. When eventually I could walk doctors forbade me to take part in games until my strength should have returned.

"As I was keen to get back to cricket and boxing I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up my strength. They proved of great benefit. I had been anaemic and thoroughly run-down but after a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I felt a fit man. In a little time I had resumed my place in the cricket team and was playing in representative matches."

Whenever a good tonic is needed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are recommended because they rapidly purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, invigorate the digestive organs, increase the appetite, expel the causes of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and neurasthenia from the system. For their especial value to women suffering from the ailments of their sex they are world famous. Your chemist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or post free, $1.50 per bottle, $8.00 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

ratio of one new share (neglecting fractions) for every four shares now held. Conditional allotment letters with a form of renunciation attached will be issued to all shareholders on the register, and the allotment will become definitive on acceptance by the shareholder, or his nominee, with payment in full. The new shares will not rank for dividend in respect of the current year, but interest (less Income Tax) will be paid on January 1, 1925, at the rate of 6 percent per annum on the full £2 per share, from the date of payment to December 31 next. The new shares will rank pari passu with the shares now issued as regards all distribution in respect of the year, 1925 and subsequently. Holders of share warrants to bearer will be afforded an opportunity of participating, and notice will be given by advertisement, that forms of claim can be obtained, which must be deposited at the company's offices in London or Shanghai, with the warrants in respect of which the claim is made. The rights attached to the new issue, if not exercised within the period to be stated in the conditional allotment letter, will lapse, and, in that event, any shares, the offer of which is not accepted, will be sold for the benefit of the company, at the best price obtainable. Current results justify the belief that profits will permit of the maintenance of the present rate of dividend on the increased capital.

SINGAPORE TRAMWAYS

A matter which has required a great deal of patience and persistent effort is that of the reorganisation of Singapore Electric Tramways, Ltd., but progress, if slow, has been continuous. The effect of our assistance to the Receiver in the local administration of the under taking has been markedly beneficial, and a power station and tramway which were on the verge of becoming derelict are now earning a profit. When matters were sufficiently advanced Mr. McColl paid a visit of more than a month's duration to Singapore, and carried the negotiations with the Municipal Commissioners to a point at which agreement was reached in regard to the terms of the Traction Ordinance, and the temporary supply of power to the Commissioners, pending the erection of their own generating station. Our latest information indicates that the Traction Ordinance will shortly be presented to the Legislative Council in Singapore.

The present stage of our own company's history is of considerable importance, in view of the rearrangement of fares in Shanghai and pending developments in that city and in Singapore. Additions have been made to the staff, and further additions will be necessary. The duties thrown upon our general manager, Mr. McColl, have been, and will continue to be, heavy. I think we are justified in regarding the future with confidence, which is due in no small measure to the ability and energy of our general manager and the loyalty and zeal of his staff. Affairs in Shanghai have engaged the constant attention of the Local Board, to whom our thanks are also due. I now move:—"That the report of the directors and statement of account for the year ended December 31, 1923, be, and they are hereby, received and adopted, and that a final dividend of 8 percent, less income tax, making 20 percent for the year, be and it is hereby declared."

Mr. J. S. Haskell seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

SIR ALFRED DENT'S RETIREMENT

Mr. Haskell: The next resolution is to elect a new director. It is with great regret that I find myself unable, on the occasion of Sir Alfred Dent's retirement from the board in the ordinary course of rotation, to move his re-election. Sir Alfred was one of the prime movers in the enterprise for which this company stands, and had a larger share than most of us in the negotiations which preceded the formation of the company. From the very beginning he devoted minute care and attention to the various agreements which form the substratum of the undertaking, and in particular to the works contract and the various matters which have to be dealt with in the early days of an important business. His knowledge, not only of financial and commercial matters in this country, but also of local conditions in Shanghai, is of great value. He has always kept closely in touch with the affairs of the company, which under his direction has continued to increase in importance and prosperity from the period when the foundations of the great traffic business which exists today were being laid down to the present time, when we are paying steady dividends at the rate of 20 percent per annum, undertaking a large extension of our system and taking over the direction of a similar concern in Singapore. I am sure that all my colleagues will bear me out when I say that we have, for the last 18½ years, valued our association with Sir Alfred in this company, that he has always been a courteous and considerate chairman, and that it is with real regret that we lose the benefit of his services after today. I am glad to say that in Mr. Hawkins you will have a man eminently fitted to succeed to the vacant directorship. He has acted as secretary since the formation of the company, and in his conduct of its affairs has brought to bear much ability, sound judgment and enterprise, which contributed not a little to the prosperity of the company to which he has devoted himself wholeheartedly. We have been fortunate in having the services of a man of his capacity and ripe knowledge during all these years, and I am sure that in electing him your action will continue to give us of his best in his new position of greater responsibility.

Mr. Portham seconded the resolution, and it was unanimously approved.

The Chairman: I now propose that Mr. Emile Francqui be, and he is hereby, re-elected a director of the company.

Mr. A. M. Marshall seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Carter proposed: "That Messrs. Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths and Co. be, and they are hereby, re-elected auditors of the company at a fee of 40 guineas," which was seconded by Mr. Stride and unanimously agreed to

Mr. Haskell: I beg to propose "That the capital of the company be increased to £500,000 by the creation of 100,000 new shares of £1 each, to be numbered 400,001 to 500,000 inclusive."

Mr. Marshall seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

The Chairman: That concludes the business of the meeting.

Mr. F. G. Sale: We should not part without expressing a very hearty vote of thanks to Sir Alfred Dent for his long and eminent services to the company. No words of mine are needed after all that Mr. Haskell has said of Sir Alfred Dent's services. As a new shareholder—comparatively new, having only held my shares for three years—I have learned to value the investment as one which I intend to be a permanent one for myself and the members of my family. I think more of my shares in this company than of any other industrial investment that I happen to have. With these few inadequate words I beg to propose a vote of thanks to Sir Alfred Dent. 999

Mr. Hallam seconded the resolution, which was unanimously accorded.

The Chairman: I beg to thank you, Mr. Sale, for what you have said about me, and you gentlemen for having passed the resoluton unanimously. That concludes the business, and I thank you for your attendance.

American Recognition Of Soviet Russia?

THERE were two significant dispatches in the newspapers of Tuesday of this week bearing on the important subject of American recognition of Soviet Russia. One dispatch was carried by the United Press and stated the possibility that the platform to be adopted by the Democratic National Convention now in session in New York may contain a provision opposing American recognition of Soviet Russia. The other dispatch was from Reuters and told of a communication which the new French Government has sent to Washington making inquiry of the Administration regarding its views on the subject of a recognition of Russia.

It is quite natural that the subject of Russian recognition on the part of America, and France—and Japan—should come up in connection with the larger problem of a settlement of the German Reparations Question. Events are moving rapidly in European politics in respect to a settlement of the outstanding problems in connection with Germany and big things may develop from the proposed Inter-allied Conference which has been tentatively scheduled for July 16. According to the news reports, Secretary of State Hughes will be in London on that date as a member of a delegation from the American Bar Association, and this may provide an opportunity for unofficial American attendance at the Inter-Allied conference which might be of great consequence in respect to future American participation in the affairs of Europe.

It is obvious, of course, that no permanent settlement of the affairs of Europe can take place without consideration of the situation of Russia. The recognition of the Soviet which has been granted by Great Britain, Italy, Germany and other countries, including China, has not solved Russia's great problem. Russia needs money, and despite all of the talk and propaganda regarding the iniquities of the capitalistic system, Russia will never settle down and become a peaceful member of the family of nations until she can obtain large financial assistance from abroad—and this means, in practical terms, loans from American and British bankers. The mere matter of political recognition on the part of Great Britain has not been able to produce the needed gold; the news reports of Mr. Trotsky's speeches spread abroad by the official Rosta Agency prove that beyond the possibility of doubt.

The snag which the Bolshevik ship of state has run up against in its drive for British and American loans has been the lack of confidence which exists in the London and New York financial centers in respect to the policies of Soviet Russia. One of the first official acts of the controllers of Moscow was a repudiation of all foreign financial obligations which had been negotiated by previous Russian Governments. In addition to this, a clause was inserted in the first constitution of the Soviet Republic giving that Government the right to seize and confiscate the property of foreigners in Russia. To apply such a doctrine in China, for instance, would give the Chinese Government the right to take over without remuneration all of the properties of the Standard Oil Company, the British-American Tobacco Company and so on.

By applying the policies of repudiation and confiscation, Soviet Russia involved herself in obligations to the United States to the grand total of G.$800,000,000. This includes loans to the amount of G.$316,903,072 and private American property in Russia amounting to G.$433,000,000, the grand total being approximately G.$800,000,000. This, of course, represents only the American financial interest in Russia. In addition to this, there is the much larger British and French financial interest also for repudiated loans and confiscated private property. The present complications dealing with the Chinese-Eastern Railway are bound up in this financial problem, because the road was constructed originally by Russia with money borrowed from France, and during the latter part of the European War, when it was operated by the Inter-Allied Technical Board, more money was put into the line by the United States and Japan.

It doubtless has been good internal politics in Russia for the Bolsheviks to propagate their anti-capitalistic doctrines which were useful in keeping the Russian people stirred up against the aggressions of the foreigner, but now that the bug-bear of foreign aggression has been removed, it is vital that the country be permitted to settle down and take up the arts of peace. And this program requires money, money for rejuvenating the railroads, rebuilding the factories, replenishing the agricultural implements, reopening the mines, developing the forestry products, the fisheries, the oil wells and so on. Russia needs money, needs it terribly bad, must have it—and all of the doctrines of repudiation and confiscation have now come home to roost. Liquid capital in America and Britain is not controlled by the Government. It represents the savings and surplus of private citizens Smith, and Jones and Brown, and these conservative individuals would as soon think now-a-days of buying Russian bonds as they would think of throwing their good money into a furnace. Neither the American nor the British Government has the power in peace times to force their citizens or their banks to lend money to Russia. The only thing which will tempt foreign money back into Russia is sound security and attractive rates of interest. There is nothing mysterious or sinister in the prolonged refusal of the United States to recognise the present Government of Russia. It is purely a matter of a return to common sense, sound and honorable principles of dealings between nations—the same principles which have governed the private relations of mankind since the beginning of time.

More Allied Agreement

THE attention which M. Herriot has already given to the question of German armaments, and the letter to the Reich which has resulted from discussions with the British and Belgian Premiers is indicative of at least one important fact. That is that no matter how friendly disposed the new French Government might be towards Reich it is determined that so far as in its power lies to insist upon adherence by Germany to the provisions of the Peace Treaty with respect to arms. It has become clear that whatever hopes the Germans had in the accession to power of the Labor party in Britain and the Left in France, so far as they centered upon any opportunity being afforded for evasion of obligations, they were doomed to disappointment. Mr. MacDonald, it was feared at first would be weak on certain matters vis-a-vis Germany, while it was also thought that the benevolence expressed towards the German Left by the new French Premier might lead to some diminution of the close regard which is kept upon German manoeuvres to get the better of those stipulations in the Treaty of Versailles which were drafted in the hope of reducing the menace of a strongly armed Germany to the rest of Europe. But it has become apparent that no matter how these parties may sympathise with each other when not in power, the responsibilities of government completely change that aspect of affairs and tend towards a continuation of that policy the discarding of which at the present moment might be fraught with the gravest dangers to the peace of Europe. There cannot be the slightest doubt that conditions were such in Germany that any party which strives towards the economic and military rehabilitation of the country would receive the warmest support from a large section of the country. Undoubtedly schemes for rearming have been furthered, arms hidden to escape the search of Allied officers, and every possible means taken to ensure that Germany shall have a good jumping-off ground in the struggle which she anticipates must come when she eventually decides to attempt to recover something of her lost importance in the councils of Europe.

As a result of these pourparlers between the three allied Premiers, Germany has received an intimation that her attempts to evade the injunctions of the Conference of Ambassadors have met with no success. We find too, that Mr. MacDonald is not nearly so weak as some people believed, and that France is not alone in her reluctance to evacuate the Ruhr without the most serious guarantees for the security of both France and Belgium. The latter country has, it would seem, made its position perfectly clear, and to have supported France in no uncertain manner. Reparations, we are told raised no difficulty, and it becomes daily more and more apparent that in the run long the security of France and Belgium will be the earnest of the continued peace of Europe and the world. That this fact has at least been fully realised, leads us to believe that a meeting ground has been reached by these three premiers from which it will be possible to adventure upon the settlement of other outstanding questions. Certainly there is every reason to believe that the three countries are very much nearer each other now than they have been for some time, a belief which seems to be justified by comment of the Vorwaerts that Germany must oppose Franco-British collaboration.

Stranger Than Fiction

THERE are so many things of almost daily occurrence in latter-day China, both north and south, that are altogether strange and unreal, such as the Lincheng hold-up, the murder of Mr. Hawley by disgruntled junkmen and the attempt on the life of Governor-General Merlin—to mention only a few cases at random—that they read more like a chapter from a penny-dreadful than the narrative of stern realities within the domain of the Chinese Republic. We have become so accustomed to the spectacle of brigandage and piracy in this country that our sympathies are apt to become jaded, and consequently we are less likely to work ourselves up to that fine fury which would be the case in a country where organised lawlessness is less common. Mexico at one time was a byword for lawlessness, but that region of the world fades into insignificance by comparison with China today. Just think of it! There is more wholesale lawlessness in China at the present time than in any other country in the world. Even the erstwhile bloody Ireland has settled down to peace and order. If there are any countries in the world where lawlessness is still rampant, we do not know of them, except, perhaps, the heart of Russia, in which we have no precise knowledge of what is really happening.

Take the case of piracy in Chinese waters. A Hongkong newspaper just received reports an amazing piracy incident which is far too extraordinary to pass unnoticed. The master of a Kongmoon steamer put back not less than twenty-six miles to report that the s.s. Flores was being pirated. The vessel was laying off an island in the Delta and there were about one hundred pirates on board. Leaving his ship about four o'clock in the morning, the Kongmoon skipper walked through the paddy fields, incidentally getting wet to the skin, and went on board the British gunboat Cicala. He passed on his information to the officer of the watch, but nothing was done, he says, according to the China Mail, until 8.30, when a cable was sent to Hongkong. The skipper adds that he was not even thanked and only got a cup of tea when he asked for one. These additional facts are relevant, says the Hongkong paper, because he mentions that the Hongkong police had told him that any information he could give would be most welcome. According to him, however, the gunboat was too busy dressing ship for the King's birthday to chase the pirates, with the result that they escaped. The skipper's disappointment was the more bitter because the gang was led by Wong Ng, the man who recently demanded money from Sir Robert Ho Tung, and he maintains that the gunboat had a priceless chance to catch this notorious pirate red-handed on the high seas. The chance was simply thrown away, he adds, and the net outcome was a bad attack of fever for himself.

In view of the masculine action taken by the commander of the Cockchafer at Wanhsien in the case of Mr. Hawley, it is difficult to believe that the officer of the Cicala could have been guilty of the conduct alleged against him by the informant of the China Mail. That is not the way of the officers and men of the British Navy, than whom a more gallant lot would be hard to find in any part of the world. In fairness to those against whom these allegations of incredible apathy have been brought, we cannot do better than quote the following passage from the paper which has given publicity to the incident:

> These are damaging statements and we should be reluctant to believe that there are no extenuating circumstances the gunboat could advance. Piracy is an international crime, and, we should think, justifies the most drastic punitive measures. Until we have heard the other side, however, we must, in common fairness, reserve final judgment. Acccordingly, at this stage, we content ourselves with the remark that the police can hardly expect steamer captains to put back twenty-six miles, trudge through the rain and then be met with less than the barest civility. Much less can they expect to cope with the piracy evil if an impression is to get abroad that valuable information will not be used to the best purpose and pirates, when their doom is almost certain, are to be allowed to escape. Having heard only one side of the case, we have written with the greatest restraint, but we feel very strongly that what has been said is amply sufficient to justify the most searching inquiry.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

THE KINGS

Universal democracy does not mean the wiping out of all grades among men, bringing every person down to an equality of commonplaceness. This idea is the product of ignorant and timid minds. The motive force of democracy is not envy.

Democracy glowers at present-day great folk not because it does not believe in aristocracy, but because it does believe in real aristocracy, and is out of patience with humbug superiority. The plutocrat of New York, the hereditary noble of London, and the kings of Europe, we do not feel pleasant toward them simply because they have no rational right to their glory.

There always have been and will be genuine kings of men, leaders, rulers all the more powerful the less power they have. To them the common man is proud to look up, and to say "master." But these are the very kind which would have more opportunity under democracy than under privilege.

Such are Dante, Shakespeare, Bacon; Lincoln, Gladstone, Mazzini; Wagner, Beethoven, Bach; Francis of Assisi, Luther, Wesley; Socrates, Plato, Kant; Pasteur, Metchnikoff, Koch and the like; and, over all, the "king of kings," the Carpenter's son of Nazareth, whose short life influenced mankind more than any battle, any dynastic change, and discovery.

We want the cheap, pewter kings of artificial convention to get out and give this kind a chance.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

Columbia University has over 30,000 students enrolled. That is the record. A "record" in this country seems to irritate people. The moment it is established, we all feel that it must be broken. The way the bull feels about the red flag.

So now it is proposed to establish a university to take care of 60,000 students. In some Middle Western State. That will "break the record."

Some day it may happen that we have several universities with exactly 500,000 students enrolled. Then we will probably want to decide which is the "champion" university. Perhaps a boxing match between the leading professor of archaeology of one university and the professor of biology of another may satisfactorily solve the matter.

To a certain extent, there is no doubt that a university is benefited by an increase in its size. The bigger university has more laboratories, more books, more buildings and more resources of all kinds than the smaller one.

This does not mean, however, that the standard of culture is any higher. The universities of Jena and Padua are smaller than Harvard or Yale but their standard of scholarship is considerably higher.

Of course those foreign universities do not amount to much in the football or baseball line.

Increase in size does not always mean increase in quality. A small pumpkin usually has a finer flavor than a big one.

It seems a pity that money and energy should be expended to the end that the size of a university be increased, when we have so many universities already in existence whose quality really needs improvement.

The culture which is derived from learning is the reward of hard, individual work on the part of the student. There is no short cut to it. It cannot be imparted by a school or correspondence. It cannot even be imparted by 1,000 college professors, even if they lectured their heads off. It all depends upon the student himself. He must work and work and work.

The greater the number of his fellow students, the greater number of things which distract his mind from work.

A student with the right idea can derive more benefit from one laboratory than a student whose mind is on athletics, can derive from eight. The world's greatest scholars and scientists were developed by universities that look puny, when compared with our big institutions.

So, instead of becoming interested in a university that will take care of 60,000 students, would it not be more intelligent to devote a lot of energy to the thousands and thousands of students who are studying in the universities that exist today and try to make them get the best out of their opportunity?

And, instead of "breaking a record" for size, would it not be more profitable to raise the standards of scholarship to a higher level?

Fight The Tick

By Henry Smith Williams

A new era in preventive medicine dates from the discovery, made by Dr. Theobald Smith about thirty years ago, that a suctorial insect may inoculate its victim with the germs of a contagious disease. The malady studied by Dr. Smith was Texas cattle fever. The guilty insect was a species of tick. If the insects are destroyed, by making their bovine hosts swim through a tank of germicidal oil, an infected animal may mingle with others without spreading the disease.

A British physician showed that the germs of malaria are conveyed by a mosquito. American physicians, working in Cuba, proved that another mosquito is the carrier of the germ of yellow fever.

It became known that the rat flea is the carrier of the germs of Asiatic plague, and the testse fly the disseminator of sleeping sickness. The tribe of ticks achieved further unenviable notoriety as carriers of germs of various maladies, including the dreaded "spotted fever" or mountain fever.

The woodtick that spreads mountain fever selects various animal hosts, including rabbits and ground squirrels, passing from these animals on occasion to a human victim. The bite of the tick is not in itself deadly, but it may become so if the insect has ingested the germs of mountain fever. For the spread of this dangerous malady the woodtick is responsible.

No available method of exterminating the tick presents itself. At least three medical investigators have lost their lives in attempting to solve the problem of restricting the malady to its present locus or banishing it altogether.

Physicians of the United States Public Health Service are attacking the problem by endeavoring to develop an immunizing serum, with which to give protection against development of the malady.

The great desideratum is a method of destroying the woodtick tribe. Whoever devises such a method will be a public benefactor.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Her lover was a business man,
In other world, on who had made
Such progress as they only can
Who dedicate themselves to trade
One day, when they were far apart,
She wrote to him—wrote every thought
That sprang directly from her heart,
And here's the answer that she got:

"Yours of even date at hand,
And in reply to same would say
Re plans for wedding, understand
That you have same well under way.
Am greatly pleased, and would advise
That ushers should be picked with care;
Am told that time, like money, flies,
But long delay is hard to bear.

"Re your remarks about high noon,
Would say that same will suit my plan;
Am busy hoping that I soon
Will be a happy married man.
Advise at once if anything
I should have done has not been done;
Would say I've bought the wedding ring—
Consider it A No. 1.

"Re you request for news, would say
Conditions here are fairly good;
New orders coming in O. K.,
Am knocking, as I write, on wood.
Have made endeavor to adjust
All details, and can hardly wait;
Am sending lots of love, and trust
May have reply at early date."

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

The young girl values her jewelry for quantity, not quality.

Every so often, according to the students of ever-changing fashions, feminine favor swerves from jewelry that is intrisically valuable, and therefore of necessity often limited in display, to that which is showy and effective regardless of its intrinsic value.

Just at present we are living through such a period. The woman who prefers a single small diamond inconspicuously set in a gold brooch, to a really effective pin of good workmanship but no great inherent value seems old fashioned, and rather prosey. The good-natured father of the young girl of today decides that he will give his daughter a bit of jewelry worth, let us say, two or three hundred dollars, and he decides that he will let her select a ring—let us say a modest ruby between two small but good diamonds. That is the father's idea of a good investment. He has been brought up to feel that a "real lady" wears jewelry according to her means. If she has but a single ornament that is of the best of its sort.

But what of the young girl. "If it's all the same to you, old dear," she says, "I'll take a check for the three hundred dollars and get what I want as I need it. It's rather nice to have a special fund for jewelry and not to have to buy it from one's dress allowance. Then when you need a new pair of earrings or a chain or bracelet with a new frock you know how to get it. Right now, I need some jade pendant earrings for my new white dinner gown, and a pear choker bracelet, earring necklace set for Mary's wedding, and—"

The father interrupts. It is only three hundred dollars, he protests—not a hundred thousand. Then the daughter initiates him into the present-day fad in jewelry. Nickel jewelry really is smarter than anything else at present. Cut-steel ornaments are preferred to those of real diamonds. One wears a new bandeau and earring set only for a season. So why have it cost more than fifteen dollars? Why split hairs with a jewelry salesman over the realness of a set of jade, if the bracelet or necklace or earrings happen to be just what you want?

At top, necklace of pearl and nickel beads worn across the neck and caught on one shoulder with diamond pin which has pearl tassel falling from it. Earring and bracelet match. In rectangle, large gold beads with earrings and bandeau to match. Below, crystal cube beads and earrings. In circle, coral earrings match in color the cigarette case which is used as ornament on ribbon sash in same shade. The sash is worn at side of a silver lace frock.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

RULES FOR THE SALAD MAKER

The expert home salad maker becomes quite as efficient in using up odds and ends of certain sorts as the soup maker does in disposing of certain other left-overs in the making of soup. But there is always danger of making this sort of salad look like a repository of left-overs—salvage from the kitchen garbage can—unless great care is taken in the making.

Extreme daintiness is required in using left-over vegetables. If leftover spinach is used it should be drained and moulded carefully, not piled in a moist mass on the lettuce leaves. Left-over peas should be whole, and added to the salad with apparent design.

Never use any olive oil that is not of the very best quality and perfectly fresh. It is better to use a fresh can of cheaper salad oil than any olive oil that is not up to a high mark. The same applies to vinegar. Only a very little vinegar should be used in dressing salad—the cost for each serving of salad being almost inconsiderable—and it should therefore be of the best quality.

Some salad makers insist that neither lettuce nor endive should ever be cut with knife or scissors, but always pulled apart by the fingers.

Most salads are best if dressed and put together just before being eaten. However, preparation for the salad making should begin far enough in advance to provide chilling of all vegetable and fruit to be used raw. This is especially true in warm weather.
